

Pearson Still Optimist

'Don't Write Off Geneva,' He Says

LONDON (CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs, said today it would be "most unwise" at this stage to write off the Geneva Conference as a failure.

In a parting statement on the conference the Canadian minister said:

"None of us who went to Geneva four weeks ago were under any illusions about the complexities of the problem, confronting us or the obstacles which would have to be overcome before success could be achieved."

"Nothing that has happened at Geneva so far has warranted any change of view, but the talks are still going on, and it would be most unwise to write the conference off."

GENEVA (CP)—South Korea finally agreed today to elections throughout the divided Korean peninsula.

In a speech before the 19-nation Korean peace conference, South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung-Tai outlined a 14-point plan for the unification of his country and Communist-controlled North Korea.

At least two of the conditions he set forth for all-Korean elections were expected to be bitterly opposed by the Communists.

One of these was that any elections must be carried out under United Nations supervision and that the UN must certify the election results. The Communists contend the UN was a belligerent in the Korean war and have ruled out its role in Korean peace plans.

Another condition expected to be opposed by the Reds is that all Chinese Communist troops must be withdrawn from North Korea at least one month before the elections while some UN forces would remain until "effective control over the whole of Korea is achieved by the unified government of Korea."

HANOI, Indo-China (CP)—French fighters and bombers today heavily pounded Viet Minh bases in the vital Red River delta after the fall of one defense post. Other squadrons hammered at rebels shifting eastward from the crushed fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Planes from land and carrier bases ripped at the Communist Viet Minh's main highway communication leading to the Red River delta and Hanoi while fighters blasted at big Molotov truck convoys.

Tyees Sign Sheridan

Hard-hitting outfielder Neil Sheridan is expected to be in the Victoria Tyee line-up for their double-header against Calgary on Monday.

Sheridan, long-time Coast League outfield star, has agreed to terms offered by the Tyees and is scheduled to arrive in Victoria in time for the game. Tyee manager Don Pries announced this morning.

Sheridan, 33, was purchased by San Francisco from Sacramento earlier this season, but has since drawn his release.

He is a big right-handed batter, considered a definite home-run threat, and a fast base runner.

With Sacramento of the Coast League last season, he saw action in 170 games and batted .293. He hit 43 doubles and 13 home runs.

BERLIN (AP)—Six miners were killed and 18 seriously injured when a pit in a Saxon uranium mine caved in. A West Berlin information service reported today.

A Tale of Toil

Youngsters participating in today's Junior Horse Show at Victoria Riding Club, Cedar Hill Crossroad grounds, were out as early as 6 a.m., grooming their mounts to impress the judges.

Medical Building Segregation At Duncan Scored by Victorians

PICTURE STRIP TELLS CHURCHILL'S STORY

No Liquor Served Here Until Tuesday

Victoria cafes granted licenses to serve wine and beer today, however, liquor control board officials interpret "forthwith" as meaning some time next week. They said licenses and forms have not been completed yet.

A top board official said it is "anticipated" the licenses will be ready for mailing by Tuesday, May 25.

Thirteen licenses were awarded altogether, including two lounge licenses for the Empress and Strathcona Hotels, which will not be issued until premises have been completed.

Operators who were successful in obtaining licenses took the statement literally, and several were prepared to start

Medical practitioners in Duncan were criticized today by Prof. J. A. Cunningham, president of the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society in Victoria, for invoking a segregation system for whites and Indians in their new $96,000 medical building.

The new medical building, which was recently completed and is serving local residents and over 800 Indians, has been provided with separate entrances and waiting rooms for Indians and whites. The two groups are completely segregated.

"I know it's their (the doctors') own affair on how they want to run their building," said Prof. Cunningham. "But it is a lousy system and not in keeping with the present-day tendency to break down racial and color barriers."

HAVE TO SUFFER

"Unfortunately minorities have to suffer this way," he added.

Prof. Cunningham recalled that Duncan has always had "poor" ideas about race. He pointed out that a few years ago some citizens were against the Indian children attending public school with whites.

"I believe Duncan is the only city in B.C. and in Canada which has ever raised this objection," he said.

Mrs. W. C. Cryer, an official of the society, described the segregation of Indians at the medical society as "not in keeping with Canadian principles."

"I have heard of negroes being segregated in the United States," she said, "but I did not think such a thing possible in Canada."

Peak in B.C. Flood Crisis Expected In Next Two Weeks; Washout on Highway

VANCOUVER (CP)—Flood-conscious citizens of British Columbia faced a holiday week-end of gradually increasing temperatures today, while swollen rivers washed out portions of a main highway and forced residents of one community to boil their drinking water.

The major rivers throughout the province continued their steady rise. They are expected to reach peak levels within the next two weeks if the warm spell continues.

Residents of the Fraser River valley, hard hit by the disastrous 1948 floods, were heartened today by a report from dike commissioner J. R. MacDonald, who reported the Fraser's dikes holding firmly despite the pressure of the spring runoff.

Mr. MacDonald said he was confident the dikes would hold.

ROAD WASHED OUT

Road travel to the south was cut for citizens of Golden in eastern B.C. when high water at the junction of the Kicking Horse and Columbia Rivers washed out a portion of highway 95. A washout also cut the Gerard-Lardeau highway on the west shore of Kootenay Lake.

At Fruitdale, nine miles east of the smelter city of Trail, residents were warned to boil drinking water when the creek which feeds the village reservoir became choked with run-off debris.

Van Mosher, engineer in charge of the dikes at Creston, said he expects little trouble when the high water level, expected next Wednesday, is reached.

"There is some seepage, but not too much and the dikes are in better condition than they have ever been," said Mr. Mosher.

Flash flooding at Michel Creek forced several families to vacate their homes Friday in the Natal-Michel district near the Alberta-B.C. boundary in the southeastern corner of the province.

The rampaging creek cut the main highway in the district and secondary roads were reported under water in several places.

47 Race Horses Burned In Detroit

DETROIT (UP)—A $250,000 fire levelled a hay-strewn barn at the Detroit race course in less than a half-hour early today, killing 47 horses and injuring four grooms who braved the flames to lead other thoroughbreds to safety.

Track officials estimated the dead horses had been worth $200,000 and set property damage at $50,000.

Farmer Knocks Out Robot Raising 89 to 8th Cube

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A Danish farm worker Friday night beat an electric brain in a contest on even terms. The machine was knocked out in the fourth round.

The farm worker, 39-year-old Gerhard Mortensen, who is performing as a "human adding machine" in show business, had challenged the machine at a business machine exhibition. The resulting contest went like this:

Round 1—Multiplication of 97 by 35 by 44. Mortensen had the correct result in 20 seconds flat. The machine used 21½ seconds.

Round 2—Multiplication of 27 by 44 by 98 by 78. This time Mortensen and the machine tied in 13½ seconds.

Round 3—Multiplication of 23 by 39 by 46 by 61. The machine won in 12½ seconds. Mortensen used 13½.

Round 4—Raising 89 to the eighth cube. Mortensen reached the correct result in 45 seconds. The machine was unable to register the high figure.

Two-Way Traffic Record; Good Weather Assured

Exodus of thousands of Victorians almost exactly matched the influx of visitors as near-record holiday week-end traffic began building up Friday and today.

All transportation companies reported "very heavy" traffic in and out of Victoria.

Trans-Canada Air Lines, only company able to forecast accurately its traffic over the week-end, expects to carry a total of nearly 5,000 passengers between Island and Mainland, Friday to Monday inclusive.

TCA operated 21 flights each way Friday, 15 are scheduled today, 19 Sunday and 21 Monday.

Black Ball Lines reported traffic between Port Angeles and Victoria "equally heavy each way," with the peak so far reached on afternoon and evening sailings Friday.

CPR's day boat from Vancouver Friday had only a moderately heavy passenger list, but

Vancouver Island Coach Lines are operating extra coaches up and down Island. Two sections were added to The Islander Friday, two more this morning, and others will be added as necessary.

Colwood RCMP at noon today reported private car traffic on the Island Highway "heavy, and building up."

Weatherman Promises Sunshine

In Victoria the stage is set for the biggest festival of the year, and the weatherman has given assurance that the sun will be around to spotlight the numerous activities.

The sun will shine both Sunday and Monday, he says. While there may be a few clouds, they won't be around long enough to bother anyone.

Thousands of people from out-of-town began flocking into Victoria today to join local citizens in marking the May 24 holiday.

Tonight's big event is the crowning of Betty Dolman as Miss Victoria on the steps of the Parliament Buildings. That ceremony is set for 9, although bands and drill teams will perform in that vicinity from 7.30 on.

The queen will parade to the coronation along Yates and down Government, moving off at 8.30.

All Canada to Celebrate

(By THE CANADIAN PRESS) the same date as Queen Victoria's Victoria Day for many years was observed on May 24, but under a 1952 statute Victoria Day is celebrated on the Monday immediately preceding May 24, to make a week-end holiday.

It happens that this year the Monday falls on the traditional May 24 date. Last year, Victoria Day and Queen Elizabeth's birthday were both celebrated on May 18, because May 24 fell on a Sunday.

It's 135 years since Queen Victoria was born on May 24, 1819—but it's only 53-years since she died after the longest reign of any British monarch, 63 years. She succeeded to the throne in 1837 and died in 1901.

Since Victoria's death, the world has seen two global conflicts followed by the Cold War and the battle in Korea and Indo-China. Victoria's uncle, William IV, once said: "It will touch every sailor's heart to have a girl queen to fight for."

It is appropriate that the first warm weather holiday of the year in Canada should also mark the birthday of the present queen, who has just completed her great Commonwealth tour.

Thrilling Action at Inter-High School Track Meet

Socreds—Grass Roots
And Upper Flowering

By ART STOTT

SOCIAL Credit took the public stage here twice this week. The Victoria constituency association met in the K of P Hall Monday night. Members were supposed to hear Mrs. Lydia Arsens, M.L.A., on "fluoridation." They heard very much more.

On Wednesday, Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who is to Socred oratory what Guy Lombardo was to popular music, outlined to the Men's Canadian Club the government's thinking and perspective in a review of legislation at the last session. The events were poles apart.

At the K of P Hall rank-and-file and group delegates tried to iron out some constitutional issues in their organization. There was no dragging. The meeting turned down an executive recommendation. A member urged the association to send back to the provincial leaders a suggestion rejected locally before.

One faction in a dispute urged its own course because it was "democratic." A rival section advocated the opposite because it was "democratic." Both wanted to work for Social Credit. There appeared no unanimity on what was Social Credit.

There was little reference to party politics on the provincial level. The name "Gunderson" was introduced only once as Mrs. Arsens, who assumed the role of group debater, piano mover and feature speaker in turn, described organizational difficulties which had contributed to the party's reverse in the last by-election.

Something Different

If Monday night's gathering was a true sample, Social Credit meetings are different—very different. The chairman arose to introduce the main speaker. A member of the audience rose to contradict him, saying it wasn't time for the main speaker, the Twilight Singers were going to sing. The chairman wished somebody would tell him what was on the program.

A group of delightful elderly people took their places on the stage. Their ages run from a junior of 65 to folk above 80. They sang their choruses and their solos, including a drinking song. Individual artists presented recitations and a table-harp solo. Everyone joined in "Can't You Hear Me Calling Caroline."

Then came Lydia. Mrs. Arsens doesn't like the idea of fluoridation. She said so in the Legislature and she said so again Monday night—quoting extensively from an anti-fluoridation pamphlet. Her argument seems to be that fluorine is a deadly poison. You wouldn't willingly take a deadly poison into your system, would you? Fluoridation is a grave danger to expectant mothers—may even curtail their expectancy—to children, and "a lot of old people die."

You wondered if the same type of argument could be applied to water. Water contains two parts of hydrogen, one part of oxygen. You know about the hydrogen bomb. Are you going to take into your system two parts of hydrogen and one part of oxygen? And a lot of old people who drink water die, too. Maybe the analogy's unfair.

Fluorine makes the patient cowl—it says in the pamphlet—no mind of his own, like a jellyfish.

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are threatened today with something that is really terrible."

Mrs. Arsens said a dentist had given her a pamphlet in favor of fluoridation. She confessed she hadn't read it, "but it's so weak it hasn't a leg to stand on."

Victoria's lady member smiles and her best arguments are her own teeth.

The evening closed with a display of old-time dancing by young people—quite an evening, but not quite what you had expected in the form of a political meeting. You left recalling the hymn which followed the opening rendition of "O Canada"—"O God Our Help in Ages Past."

Suave Advocate

From that the Socred spotlight shifted to the Empress Hotel luncheon. Mr. Bonner, suave, persuasive, the gifted advocate, presented his concept of British Columbia, unwittingly paraphrasing an oft-quoted phrase of a former Liberal M.L.A.: "The future of this country lies entirely before us."

Mr. Bonner pictured the province at a point in development analogous to the Britain of William the Conqueror. He sees the government's hospital scheme extending to the people that degree of welfare which they can expect from a country so rich. And he considers the expensive educational system justified in its training of young British Columbians in those special skills and abilities required by them to develop British Columbia's resources as they should be developed.

The Attorney-General carried forward the vision of the pioneer in a country young in settlement and scarcely realizing the potentialities of its northern frontier.

There was, in his speech, a careful avoidance of party mention. When he said "we" it was, he explained, in its broadest sense. British Columbia has a highly developed form of self-government from which no citizen feels himself excluded.

Listening, you tried to reconcile that with the attitude of the government at the last session, when acceptance of opposition suggestions was consistently declined while Mr. Bennett and his close lieutenants drove through the legislation they wanted.

Skill, it was a well-phrased speech well received. Mr. Bonner does extremely well with words and has an unusually pleasant platform presence.

Old Picture-Rock Carvings May Prove Indian Lived in Canada 1,500 Years Before Christ

TORONTO (CP)—Prof. J. N. vice-president Ernest Craig, Emerson of the University of geologist Charles Phipps and Toronto, noted Canadian archaeologist, noted Canadian archaeologist, noted Canadian archaeologist, said today he believes picture-rock carvings discovered recently near Petersburg, Alaska, and a collection of the same type of carvings found in the area of the birth of Christ.

Prof. Emerson said the discovery of 54 pictures "ground" rather than carved into the face of a 50-by-35-foot crystalline limestone ledge in an isolated backwoods area should prove to be "one of the most significant contributions to our understanding of early native art in North America."

The man had entered and departed with the money within a minute.

Cominco Workers Vote to Ask For Conciliation Officer

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Local 480 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers here has voted to ask for a government conciliation officer to assist in negotiations with Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Limited.

Harvey Murphy, chairman of the independent union's joint bargaining committee, stated in a report that the company's proposals were "completely unacceptable."

Speaking at a meeting Thursday night at which the vote was taken, he accused the smelting company of showing no desire to bring about a satisfactory settlement of the 1954 agreement negotiations.

Jack Musgrove, president of Bluebell sub-local 651, at Kimberley, told the Trail union

Mrs. O'Malley was granted a divorce from husband No. 13, Raymond J. O'Malley, 37, whom she accused of blacking her eyes, setting fire to her hair, tearing her clothing and burning her bosom with a cigarette.

"Marriage is a habit with this lady," Judge Otto J. Hume said. "I don't suppose she will ever get out of the habit. Giving her a divorce is only turning her loose to do it over again. However, we might just as well let O'Malley out of the picture."

BLUEBERRY PIE: Twenty-year-old Thomas Edward Haslett will serve three months in Oakalla Prison all because of blueberry pie. He was convicted by Magistrate A. D. Poole on a charge of disturbing the peace and incommencing other persons after a cafe disturbance in which Haslett held another youth while his companion hurled a blueberry pie in the victim's face.

Vancouver Coroner Dies In Hospital

Council Had Asked For His Removal

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. J. D. Whitebreak, 61, coroner here for 10 years, died in hospital Friday of a heart ailment.

The coroner, centre of controversy since May 3 when aldermen, at a closed meeting, voted to ask Attorney-General Bonner for his removal, died while awaiting a visit from Mr. Bonner.

Dr. Whitebreak is survived by his widow and a son, John, 25; daughter, Mary, 16, and two sisters.

Doctors said the coroner's condition had improved lately to the point where he was going to be allowed out into the sunshine soon. No official reason was ever given for the aldermen's opposition to Dr. Whitebreak, but the coroner charged conflicting personalities were to blame.

Three Ontario Sailors Adrift 'Down Under'

OTTAWA (CP)—Three of the 11 sailors who jumped ship when the cruiser Ontario left Australia in February are still missing, the navy said Friday.

The other eight who went over the hill have given themselves up to Australian police and have left for Canada.

The navy said the men will be charged with desertion or absence without leave, depending on when they gave themselves up. Normally, a man is not charged with desertion until he has been away for a month.

Trail Health Board Okays Fluoridation

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Fluoridation of Trail water supplies was approved in principle at the monthly meeting of the West Kootenay Union Board of Health here.

The resolution calls upon municipal councils in the district to give the matter serious consideration and points out that nine out of 10 boys and girls under 16 suffer from tooth decay.

Health Officer Dr. A. F. Balkany said fluoridation could provide the answer to one of the province's most acute health problems.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Groundwork of a program which Social Credit leaders said would see candidates of their movement entered in every federal constituency at the next general election, was laid in Winnipeg, Friday.

Social Credit party leaders told a political meeting here Friday night they had spent the day in closed session "devising plans for the day when Social Credit will challenge the right of the Liberal party to go on behaving as it has been for the past 25 years."

More than 300 persons attended the three-hour banquet to hear Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta denounce "propagandists," who, he said, were spreading the word that Social Credit was based only on "some fantastic monetary reform theory."

The meeting also heard Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia tell of the achievements of his government in two years, and national leader Solon Low claim the Conservatives had finally "awakened to the fact there's another party replacing them . . . as the effective opposition to the status quo."

PLAN ACTION

Earlier Friday, the premiers, Mr. Low, Rev. E. G. Hansell, Member of Parliament for MacLeod, and national president, and 12 other party members met in a regular quarterly session of the board of directors to plan future action.

Mr. Low said the board had agreed to spend the next three months building up "pretty fair organizations" in Saskatchewan, Ontario and Manitoba. He said another decision taken was to turn out a publication, within a month or six weeks, which would lay down the principles and policies of Social Credit and "show how we propose to translate these into good, sound government."

Claxton Refuses To Give Report On Reserve Army

OTTAWA (CP)—Defense Minister Claxton Friday night rejected a demand by Opposition Leader Drew that Parliament be given a confidential report on the condition of Canada's reserve army.

Mr. Claxton informed the Commons he will tell the House later what the report recommends and what is being done to implement suggestions.

Mr. Drew, speaking during Commons study of defense department estimates, said the report by three top army officers should be released.

Duplessis Criticizes Ottawa For Allowing Red Propaganda

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—Premier Maurice Duplessis Friday night criticized the federal government for spending $5,000,000 for national defense against possible Red aggression while leaving Communist propaganda free to circulate within the country.

"I have received a letter from Mayor Gerard Guay of Silley complaining that the French language Communist newspaper Le Combat was being widely distributed by the post office," Duplessis told his weekly news conference.

"The nation spends billions of dollars to protect itself against Communist aggression and yet, illogically, it permits the Communists to spread their deadly poison through its post office service," the premier added.

"As far as we, Quebec, are concerned, we shall continue the fight we started in 1937 against communism and Communist agents and further ad-

Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace officially opened the $274,000 RCAF Urban Centre, Yates at Quadra, at a dinner reception held Friday night for armed forces representatives and government and municipal officials.

The ceremony was held in the officers' mess of 2455 Aircraft Warning and Control Squadron, the reserve RCAF unit housed in the former motor firm building. Guest speaker was Air Marshal Sir Phillip Livingston, retired RAF medical chief. The public toured the building during an "open house" held this afternoon.

Massey Sends Queen Birthday Congratulations From Sioux

OTTAWA (CP)—A birthday greeting to the Queen from Governor-General Vincent Massey will be sent from the destroyer Sioux.

The governor-general is visiting British Columbia and now is en route from Kitimat to Vancouver aboard the Sioux. The warship is scheduled to arrive at Vancouver Sunday morning. Government House today released the text of the 24th of May message, datelined "aboard Your Majesty's Canadian ship Sioux":

"I beg to send you, madame, with my humble duty, loyal and devoted good wishes from the people of Canada for the day on which we celebrate Your Majesty's birthday."

Prime Minister St. Laurent will send the following cable to the Queen's private secretary:

GEN. LEMAY

USAF Can Find, Hit Any Target, Says Gen. Lemay

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chief of the long-range United States bombing force says his planes and crews are set to strike at targets anywhere in the world.

Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, chief of the U.S. Air Force's strategic air command, said Friday that "the readiness of our strategic bombers to strike back on a global scale is a considerable factor ... in discouraging the spread of a limited war."

Lemay told the Armed Forces Chemical Association his bombers can take off in any kind of weather, "fly direct to within a few hundred feet above any designated point on the globe," and "hit their target when they get there."

Ottawa Experiment

OTTAWA (CP)—Unemployment has prompted the federal government to try a small-scale experiment in moving jobless into areas where there is work. The government's supplementary estimates for 1954-55, tabled in the Commons Friday, included $125,000 for this project.

'HOT' RAIN FALLS AGAIN ON JAPAN

Government Checks Drinking Water, Fruits; To Make Radiation Check 40,000 Feet Up

TOKYO (UP)—Radioactive rain fell on Japan again today and Japanese scientists expressed belief the country is the victim of both American and Soviet atomic tests.

The welfare ministry ordered radioactivity checks of drinking water in 13 major cities, including Tokyo and Osaka, and careful inspection and washing of vegetables and fruits.

An influential group of weather experts and scholars said radioactive dust layers may be hovering in the upper stratosphere over Japan and asked government funds to make a geiger counter check before the rains wash them down. The counters would be sent up 26,000

Corfu Greeks Demonstrate Against British

ATHENS (AP)—Thousands of anti-British demonstrators broke through police cordons and hurled stones through the windows of the British consul's car on the Greek island of Corfu Friday, press reports said today.

The influential morning paper Kathimerini said that the demonstrators were joined by church leaders, including the bishop of Corfu.

There was no immediate official explanation for the demonstrations, but feeling against Britain is running high because of her refusal to consider Greek claims that the Middle East colony of Cyprus be united with Greece.

Radar Screen Doesn't Exist In Far North Tory Declares

OTTAWA (CP)—A Progressive Conservative has accused Defense Minister Claxton of misleading Canadians about a radar air-defense screen which, he said, does not exist.

Lt.-Col. Douglas Harkness, Calgary, North, said in the Commons Friday that Canada needs an early-warning system far to the north.

Canada's present radar screen was shallow, based on certain points, and backed up by no more than three CF-100 jet squadrons.

"We are not entirely helpless, but we are very close to it," said Col. Harkness, an artillery officer overseas in the Second World War.

In other business Friday, the government tabled supplementary estimates totaling $42,314,728, bringing its known spending program for the 1954-55 fiscal year to $4,534,065,000. The figure would be a peacetime high for expenditure.

Speaking in the second day of House study of defense estimates, Col. Harkness took issue with Mr. Claxton's statement Thursday that practice RCAF operations had stopped nine out of 10 attacking bombers, and that the plan for a radar and intercept screen was 90 per cent completed.

FALSE SECURITY

"I think the minister of national defense does no service to the Canadian people by giving them a false sense of security with regard to the radar screen which exists, or rather with regard to the one which does not exist."

Mr. Claxton replied later with an amplification of his reference to halting nine out of 10 planes in practice.

He said the figures illustrate an operational study and did not suggest that "if the enemy came over tonight our planes could get into the air and knock down nine out of 10."

If it was a night attack, through freezing rain which grounded defense planes, the attack would be successful. Radar-guided missiles from the ground, which could stop such an attack, had not been developed by any country yet.

Diminishing Returns

IN DEMANDING COSTLY SO-called fringe benefits for Canadian railway workers, Mr. Frank Hall, spokesman of the railway unions, has made a remarkable statement: "Our position is that the financial position of the railways is none of our concern. It is a matter between them and the Board of Transport Commissioners."

Mr. Hall, an able and sensible labor leader, must know what that means. It means simply that the railways must pay more to their workers and recoup themselves by higher freight rates, to be paid in the cost of goods by every family in Canada.

Even supposing that this extra item in the general cost of living is justified, what happens to the railways when freight rates are raised? Their revenue shrinks through a reduction in traffic. Either less goods are moved or the railways lose business to truck lines, ships, airplanes and pipelines. In the spiral of rising costs and diminishing traffic the railways already have been caught in the law of diminishing returns.

When refusing the railways' last application for rate increases the Board of Transport Commissioners thus summarized the problem: "During a period of nation-wide decline, anything which superimposes un-economic operating costs upon the railways can hardly be expected to do otherwise than lead to a more serious and enduring dislocation in industry and, consequently, to a more serious and enduring curtailment of railway employment."

That is to say, anything which reduces railway traffic by making it too costly damages not merely the railway owners — the private owners of the C.P.R. and the public owners of the C.N.R. — not merely the people at large who pay freight rates, but the employees of the railways. As the Board of Transport Commissioners says, the railway workers are in danger of pricing themselves out of employment.

These facts are confirmed by the latest financial reports of the railways. They show increased rates, increased costs and a fall in traffic. The railways' problem cannot be solved by further rate increases, which will only depress traffic further. Yet Mr. Hall says that the railway workers, who depend on the prosperity of the railways for their own, have no concern with these things. If the familiar spiral continues, Mr. Hall will find that he is quite wrong, that the national economy in general and the railway workers in particular will suffer serious damage.

Power Lines and Property

THE SAANICH TOWN PLANNING commission has drawn to the municipal council's attention the problems raised by plans to establish a power substation in that area.

The substation is needed to meet present and future power requirements. Property, it is presumed, will have to be rezoned for the unit. Beyond that, the municipality must determine what arrangements can be made to bring the power to this distributing centre.

Conventionally, the power would be transmitted over lines carried on H-poles—double poles which require a cleared right-of-way about 175 feet across and extending the full length of the transmission lines.

If the proposed site on Ophir, near Cedar Hill Road is approved, those wires could extend for a distance of approximately five miles.

Opposition to the scheme has already arisen in petition form from residents and ratepayers who believe with complete justification that the status of their holdings would be affect. They can see nothing but lowered property values and loss of the countryside they prefer if the right-of-way is cut through their land or that adjacent to them.

The property owners have an excellent case.

The town planners, recognizing fully the need for more power, have advanced various suggestions which might overcome the difficulty. One is the installation of costly underground cable. Another is relocation of the station to avoid conflict with property owners and to shorten the line. A third is the construction of a divided road down the middle of which would run the poles.

The submissions of the commission deserve the widest possible study. Once the lines are in, they will be there for a long time. Poles running through a right-of-way are under no circumstances an attraction to surrounding property.

What the council does in the present instance will remain a monument for some time. It cannot afford to make mistakes.

Garden Glory of 50 Years

PICTURES ON THE FRONT page of this newspaper last Thursday told graphically the story of 50 years at Butchart's.

The history of a half century, from the relatively small beginning to the present mansion surrounded by gardens that are legend all over the world, is a matter of familiar and abiding pride in Greater Victoria.

Here is the product of a woman's dreams and imagination which, among other triumphs, transformed the hideous scar of an old quarry into the glory of a sunken garden.

Tomorrow evening the grounds will be open to the public without even the charge of the nominal fee required now to maintain this beauty spot. Thus is an important anniversary observed.

Once again Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross are hosts in the manner of the latter's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart, whose graciousness and friendliness stay green in the community's memory.

A Lake, a Loon, and Life's Beginnings

By HUBERT EVANS, Roberts Creek, B.C.

ON the map the lake is insignificant and unnamed. Locally it is known as Butchart's Lake. The children of the upper Skeena call it Dog Nest lake. "Round, like the bed a dog makes for himself in leaves or snow," they tell you.

EVANS

Indians do not fasten the names of survey party cooks, so a forgotten political, visiting nobility or people out of books to British Columbia's streams and lakes and mountain peaks. The names they give are apt, worn smooth by centuries of usage.

Chances are I will never get north to Dog Nest lake again and, for some strange reason, I have the feeling it would be better not to. For my last day on it was such that I seem to have absorbed all of that hidden lake which really matters and to have kept it by me ever since.

VIVIDLY IN MIND

Why do many of us find that a particular place or scene stays vividly in mind while others far more striking blur and fade? Mood, a heightened perceptiveness and perhaps some inner need must have something to do with it.

I remember so clearly a certain side-hill with jackpine and stag-horn moss like a rug spread over lumpy ground, not seen since early manhood. I can hear and smell and see a reach of strong river flowing between cedars where I used to pole my canoe and fish for trout at evening; and the swiftly mounting grace of a snow peak glimpsed only once through the spruces. Yet many of this province's publicized and much photographed scenes lie all forgotten.

More often than not these lesser scenes we treasure appear ordinary on film. For them, the objective approach, the merely photographic, is not enough. They have nothing to say to us through the viewfinders of our cameras. But when we stand before them with a kind of negative expectation and empty readiness, the miracle of long remembrance will sometimes come.

MOOSE PASTURE

This was how it was with me that last afternoon on Dog Nest lake.

I came down through the moose pasture, pushed the makeshift raft out through the water lily pads and fished my fly dry, stalking the rises as best I could. The spruces back from the swampy shore were Group of Seven spruces, tall and narrow hiped, their arms tight folded. When their shadows pulled long across the water, a cow moose and her calf came out on the beaver meadow.

I had four good cutthroat and the evening rise was barely begun but I put away my rod and squatted on the raft to watch the moose.

Or, at the time, this was what I thought I was watching. The mother browsed steadily, lifting her head and looking toward the raft from time to time.

The calf played and suckled and played again. There were some willow clumps across the meadow and it kept

'CANADA'S BLUE CHIPS'

I would like to congratulate you on the editorial in your paper of May 14 entitled "Canada's Blue Chips." I've been reading some of the evidence given before the Alaska Boundary tribunal and feel the main reason for the loss of the Panhandle was the deplorable lack of vision shown by our governments of the last century.

The proposals for development of northern B.C. and the Yukon are going to make the need for a deepwater port increasingly important to our economy. I hope you will keep this matter before the public eye as much as possible through the medium of your paper and perhaps we will reach a satisfactory solution along the lines you suggest.

In the same issue of your paper your columnist "Chips" has a reference to what Mr. Haig-Brown had to say in Ottawa about our salmon. I'm a commercial fisherman and I certainly didn't appreciate the remarks "Chips" made especially as they were not based on facts.

I do not know Mr. Haig-Brown personally but have heard him speak at a number of meetings of the B.C. National Resources Conference and believe most of his opinions on our natural resources are right. I think history will show that his objective reasoning and vision have been outstanding.

If "Chips" had followed the news columns of your paper he would know that the salmon pack is all sold and that the fishermen have received cuts in price for the last two years and not raises.

IMPERFECTION

May I suggest to Alan Greig (issue of May 14) that certainly, with the regeneration of unregenerative man, there is a new attitude: for the knowledge of the "grace of God" is the tangible presence of the Divine, wherein we acknowledge "Our Father which art in heaven."

But we are not yet redeemed from evil, nor can we be until Christ comes to redeem us.

Paul, the Apostle to the Gentiles, surely one born again, lamented "It is not I that sin, but the evil that dwelleth in me." Jesus said "Let him that is without sin first cast a stone," so I would ask Alan if there is one solitary being on the earth, perfect, sinless, or altogether righteous? Even as Jesus said "Why callest thou me good? There is none good, but God." We pray still, more fervently at this moment of time, "Thy kingdom come." All men of good will are waiting for redemption from evil.

RACKETS?

That your correspondent C. M. Cadwallader admits that "charity and religious projects rank high among rackets, which fleece the public," is heart-warming from one, who usually is in the forefront of those who propagandize "churchianity" (May 14).

If fluoridation must be classified as a racket, I can't judge. Here is what Martin Pretorius, nutritionist, says about this in Dec. '53 issue of his newsletter in connection with the opening of a new cola manufacturing plant in Los Angeles, under the caption "Poor Kids: Bless 'Em." At that opening, Walter S. Mack said "The American public is now consuming 30 billion bottles of soft drinks a year with a retail value of $2,500,000,000; 60 per cent of all these are consumed by the kiddies — all bless them."

Pretorius writes then: "How our manufacturers go on year after year dispensing these soft drinks with the phosphoric acid in which is now known to produce cavities in the teeth of our children, is beyond me."

"On the one hand the government permits a drink to be sold which is definitely harmful to the teeth and then on the other hand encourages water to be fluorinated to try and save the children's teeth. It just does not make sense."

Incidentally, you can hear and see Pretorius at the Sirocco, View Street, June 1, 2 and 3, at 8 p.m. You will never regret it if you go there.

centering back and forth between them and its mother, throwing up its lanky limbs in a slow, rocking horse motion.

The evening was clear, trees and reeds and water absolutely still. On the low ridge facing me one tall cottonwood had turned a singing yellow, so that the air around it seemed to be filled with golden radiance. That and one small cloud above a distant peak were the only embellishments.

The scene was one of such vast and pure simplicity—a few nearby trout pucker the surface sheen in their slow, confident rises, the two unfeared moose and the infinite, enfolding silence—that you felt you were near to life's beginnings. And then in mid-lake a loon began to sing.

MINOR QUALITY

I call it singing because that was what it was. It had the long drawn, minor quality of an Indian song, with sometimes a trill between the full notes and it expressed, as no other singing could, the mood of that hidden lake at dusk. After its longest notes the loon raised its head, then sank lower in the water during the pauses before the ridge gave it back its echo.

The moose moved off into the dark woods, the peaks stood in angular, geometric shapes against the last of the day's light, and two immature loons cruised out of the reeds and past me. They left two shadowy, converging wakes as they swam to join the singer.

I started home soon after that. But the feel of Dog Nest lake stayed with me. And I believe it always will.

LOOSE ENDS

Save Any Time Lately?

ALL over Canada this spring the motorist can see how our civilization is steadily improving. New roads are being cut through the wilderness, straight as an arrow. The ugly trees, the hideous mossy banks and all the original mistakes of nature are being removed by bulldozers, and the clean asphalt beauty of the modern highway stretches in noble vista to the horizon.

As a result, we are saving that most valuable of all commodities, time. On a journey, say, of fifty miles a man may save ten precious minutes. If you add up all the time being saved by fast roads in this country today the total must come to hundreds of years. But what are men doing with all these extra centuries? No one has been able to tell us that.

Hutchison

A MAN drives from one place to another in fifty minutes where he used to take sixty. What happens to those ten minutes salvaged from eternity?

They could be used for the cultivation of the mind—the average motorist must be saving enough time to equip himself with a liberal education—but the educationists see no sign of it.

Or the extra dividend of hours and days could be devoted to the contemplation of the great outdoors, but the whole purpose of the highways is to prevent it. If the motorist ever took to contemplating the outdoors the rate of automobile accidents would be higher than it is now.

and is, indeed, higher on good safe roads than on the old unsafe ones.

THERE is no answer to this mathematical mystery. The time is saved on the highways, in the factories and offices, and even in the gadget-studded kitchen, but no one seems to know where it goes, and the more time people have the harder they are pressed to find a moment's leisure, the more they are driven by that old tyrant, the clock, which runs faster every year.

There was a period in Canada, though the younger generation won't believe it, when people were content just to jog along at the absurd speed of thirty miles an hour. It is hard to imagine now, but they actually enjoyed it. Yes, and before that they were satisfied if their fastest horse covered thirty miles in a day.

I WAS reading last night of Sir John A. Macdonald's customary trip from Toronto to Quebec, which took three days and nights by rail, and he thought he was breaking all speed records by the new magic of the locomotive. That was only ninety years ago.

It is difficult to conceive how a man under these primitive conditions ever found time to build a nation. No wonder they called him Old Tomorrow when he had no time today. Yet he seemed to get along all right and none of our statesmen crossing the continent in a few hours has been able to do any better.

THE queer thing is that Macdonald, for all the unavoidable waste of time, found plenty to do everything he wanted to do and some things he shouldn't have done. So long as nobody tried to save time there was more than enough of it.

FROM A CARAVAN IN THE JUNGLE

A Tiny Scholar Challenged French Power

THE powers gathered at Geneva withdrew behind closed doors to gnaw their bones of contention this week. Although the communists appeared ready to ease their insistence that representatives of the rebel shadow governments of Laos and Cambodia be included in the talks there were still many points of dispute.

By Friday it appeared that negotiation might proceed on an armistice plan that combined French and Viet Minh proposals.

For France the time was growing short. A strong Viet Minh rebel army was closing in on Hanoi and the rich Red River delta. French air attacks had halted it for the time being some 75 miles from the northern city. But the communist troops were fresh from their victory at Dien Bien Phu.

A drastic shake-up in the French command and a complete change of strategy were under emergency consideration.

Who was back of these developments? Whose terms were being discussed on an equal basis with French proposals at a world conference? Whose army, far stronger, better equipped and better trained than the French communists had dreamed, was throwing the capital city of northern Indo-China into panic?

Chinese and Russian advice and assistance, of course, were important in both the military and diplomatic spheres. But the man who from his motor-caravan headquarters in the hinterland of Indo-China masterminded the whole communist revolt is a slight, scholarly-looking, 62-year-old Indo-Chinese, only four feet eleven inches in height, who at present lives under the name of Ho Chi Minh.

Man of Mystery

To the best of western knowledge, Ho Chi Minh has not been interviewed by the press for nearly ten years, nor has he had an outside visitor in five. No pictures of him have been taken for some years, and his exact whereabouts — he never sleeps in the same location twice in succession — are not known.

Indeed, were it not for an occasional rebel radio broadcast in the thin, reedy voice of Ho Chi Minh, the man might well be thought not to exist at all in the flesh. He could be a legend, a myth, a wraith — were it not for the concrete fact of those marching divisions which back up the Viet Minh messages to Geneva.

Ho Chi Minh has not always been known by that name. He has had half a dozen names, and each one marked a different phase of his career.

He was born as Nguyen Tat Thanh. His father was a minor official in the French colonial government but was fired for drunkenness and some pilfering of post office funds. The son changed his name to Nguyen Ai Quoc — which means Mr. Patriot — and struck out on his own.

In a Greek ship, as a deckhand, he eventually reached the United States. As he has told interviewers since, he "learned to hate America." He later made his way to Europe, entering France in 1930 under the name of Nguyen Tuu Tuo.

HO CHI MINH

At this time the young man had little education, but his mind was quick. He gained a job in Paris as a photographer's assistant and spent much of his time on the Left Bank, absorbing radical theories. He attended socialist meetings and moved leftward to communist groups.

The history is fragmentary in parts. For a while the Indo-Chinese worked as busboy in a large London hotel. There are gaps when he disappears from view. But in the early 1930's he is found enrolled in the Soviet School for Oriental Leaders in Moscow.

His name at that time was Song Man Tcho. With that name, a smattering of Russian and a growing knowledge of the principles of world revolution, the future Viet Minh leader began his real career.

He was sent first to Canton to act as interpreter for the communist agitator, Borodin. Chiang Kai Shek's secret police eventually arrested him but he got away and next appeared in Bangkok, the capital of Siam. Here he served as a translator at the Russian embassy. He is thought also to have organized communist movements in Malaya and Thailand.

During this period he was known as Nguyen Van Tam, and it was under this name that he organized the first official Indo-China communist party in exile. The long years of Moscow's indoctrination were bearing fruit.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Perhaps our mistake is to try to save it at all. Like some wild plants that will die from garden cultivation, time evidently resents regulation, shrinks under efficient management and finally disappears altogether in the hands of those efficient managers who have every hour of the day marked on their desk calendars and stagger home at night having accomplished nothing but a useless day, a high income and a stomach ulcer.

A WISE man like Macdonald will leave time alone, let it go its own gait and, by disregarding the clock, enjoy every passing hour. Our great modern illusion is that no time can be enjoyed except in idleness, that no hour is saved unless it is saved from work, when obviously work is the only reliable enjoyment permitted to man.

The ironic law of diminishing returns exacts its final penalty when, having acquired leisure, hardly anyone knows what to do with it and yet, by a queer vicious circle, the more unusable, irritating leisure we gain the more we want.

SO the roads must be straightened out, the stone bluffs cut down, the forest leveled and all the curves removed. No engineer, however, has yet discovered a way to remove the curves of the human mind as it races over the shortest and usually the ugliest distance between two points. The more it seems to go ahead on a straight line the more it is going around in circles and coming back to where it started, with an extra minute, or hour or year to be used, of course, in devising new ways of saving time.

In 1936 he once more entered Indo-China. The French at once put a price on his head, but he has never been captured.

The Second World War brought Japanese occupation. It was in the early years of the conflict that the communist leader assumed the name by which he now is known—Ho Chi Minh, The One Who Shines.

About the same time he formed a league of Indo-China refugees which he called the Vietnam Doc Lap Dong Minh Hoi—League for the Independence of Vietnam. It became known by the shorter appellation of Viet Minh—a term which has become ominously familiar during the past decade.

Ho's partisans fought the Japanese during the final years of the war, and at times with the aid of American aircraft and supplies. At the war's end he entered Hanoi and proclaimed himself president of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, which was recognized by the French in 1946. As head of the republic Ho Chi Minh journeyed to France to negotiate its independence, but he could not reach agreement with the government in Paris.

The main point of dispute was possession of the rich southern province of Cochinchina. Ho pressed his case strongly, for he knew that Indo-China was split into two over the issue of independence. He returned home with the dispute deadlocked. Its new phase was not long in coming.

A Viet Minh guerrilla band raided a French settlement and massacred fifty civilians. That was in December, 1946, and the war has been waged ever since.

Beliefs Not Known

The quality of Ho Chi Minh's army is now known, but there is less information on the state of mind of his thousands of followers. It has been estimated that 80 per cent of them have no interest in communism. Some claim their cause is merely nationalism and independence from France.

Ho Chi Minh's own beliefs are equally problematical. He has been described as most likely to be the Tito of south-east Asia—a convinced communist but not a slave to Moscow. But it is also known that he has never yet disobeyed a request of the Kremlin. His currently great assistance from the Peiping-Moscow axis is likely to bind him more firmly to that partnership.

One of the pastimes of Ho Chi Minh, when he has a spare moment in his caravan headquarters, is said to be devising booby traps. These he issues to his troops for use in the jungle fighting. These too, in another sense, he may be issuing to his representatives at Geneva.—B. A. T.

A Full 18 Holes

My renowned colleague, Bruce Hutchison, in a recent cheerful note on the glories of May, cautioned his readers to take a good look around them—because future Mays might be blasted off the calendar. My wife, who believes implicitly everything Mr. Hutchison writes, read this warning and immediately burst into tears. "Oh, dear," she sobbed. "Now we'll never be able to make it."

"Make what?" I demanded.

"You know," she said. "That full 18 holes of golf you promised to play with me, back in 1939."

I snorted.

"Please," she exhorted. "This is serious. Before we go—before the bomb lands—honor this one pledge. It's important to me."

"Why?" I hedged.

"Because I want to get my handicap reduced," she said.

Keate

The delightful inconsistency of this remark stopped me cold. It also gave time to conceive an ingenious excuse.

"It wouldn't work," I told her. "A husband can't sign a wife's card. The Royal and Ancient Society would never accept it. Also, it would be doubly unacceptable in my case, as it is a well-established fact that it is a provincial offense in B.C. to believe anything signed by a newspaperman."

"You find out," she replied, firmly.

This opportunity arose last Sunday, when we were following a golf match and happened across our old friend, Walter Gravin. Mr. Gravin is a highly-respected golf professional and is supposed to know about such things.

With my domestic fate tottering in the balance, I put the question to him.

Walter looked at me, steady-eyed. "You want to know something, kid?" he demanded. "Shoot."

"NEVER play 18 holes of golf with any woman, least of all your wife."

This, to be sure, was not exactly news to me. Indeed, there was ample familial precedent for the soundness of his ruling.

Thirty-years ago my dear departed father, in a moment of inexplicable weakness, invited me to join him in the annual city two-ball mixed foursomes, and I was dragged to caddy for them.

The recollection of this joust sears my memory, even today. On the first hole, my dad smacked one down Broadway. My mother, playing the alternate shot, shanked it into a bunker. Dad chipped out. Mother put the fourth into some trees. Eight shots later, when they fetched up in front of the first green, Dad was ejecting great gouts of tobacco juice on the fairway, and where he spat, the grass curled up and died. As Mother stepped up to roll the fateful putt up to the green, Dad snarled. In a malevolent outburst, clearly audible across the Gulf, he cried: "Ethel, for 3%!!& sake don't try to aim that ball—just hit it! Hit it! Hit it!"

For two weeks after the match, I recall, we conversed in our house by sign language.

But that was before the days of the H-bomb. In view of Bruce's clear warning, I felt I could not honestly refuse my wife's graveside request. One day this week the battle was joined.

Leave us at this point draw a discreet veil over the dreadful details. The round may charitably be described as a disaster.

At the eighth tee, where I was ready to fling myself into the ocean, my wife departed her usual standards of honesty and began outrageously to flatter me. My swing, she said, was sound. My stance was admirable. My follow-through was perfect.

With this same swing, stance and follow-through, mind you, I was in enough trees to qualify for a forest management license. By the twelfth, my score looked like Farouk's laundry list, including a few 12's for the socks and 20's for the collars. At the eighteenth, where she calmly dunked a 15-foot, sidehill putt, she was a clear dozen strokes ahead of me.

So now my life is complete. There's nothing left.

Bruce, bring on your H-bomb. Preferably after my wife has seen this column!

What's Your Opinion?

By BILL PARKER and IRVING STRICKLAND

What do you think of all-night high school graduation parties?

Lewis Knott, 1290 Topaz:

"From the parents' point of view they aren't a good thing. If it was my daughter, I'd not allow her to attend. If it was my son, I'd tell him, OK, but to be respectable at all times. It is too easy for kids to get into trouble these days."

Bill Langas, Douglas TV and Appliances, 2901 Douglas:

"I wouldn't approve of them at all. Liquor usually shows up at one of these parties, and liquor and high school students don't mix. There will be plenty of time in later years for them to go on all-night parties. At high school age though, the kids should be home at a reasonable hour."

Gordon Page, Gas and Appliances, 2905 Douglas:

"I wouldn't permit my children to stay out that late. Parents are responsible for the kids' actions, so it is up to them to make certain as to what happens. It isn't as if the school extends the party beyond their closing time; these are usually new parties that start, and they shouldn't unless the parents sanction it."

Fred C. Jones, Fred's Service Station, 3115 Douglas:

"I'm sort of disappointed over this idea of the youngsters holding all-night parties. I personally don't blame the kids. I blame the parents. Children seem to get the impression that all-night benders are fun. It is time the parents did a little more towards looking after their children more properly."

C. Robinson, 3511 Douglas:

"I am very much against high school students staying out all night. Midnight or one o'clock is late enough. Youngsters shouldn't be allowed out for the night unless they know how to handle themselves, and very few students seem to know."

Hearing on Pipeline Bid Opens June 15

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners announced it will open hearings June 15 on an application of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. for a permit to build a natural gas pipeline from Alberta to eastern Canada.

The $300,000,000 line is to run from Alberta's Princess field to Montreal at the eastern end, 2,240 miles. It will send gas to the Minneapolis area south of Winnipeg.

The company on May 13 received assurance of a 27-year supply from the Alberta government. It proposes to start construction early next year and complete the line by late 1956.

Recall of Jets Would Hit Defense Pact, Says Claxton

OTTAWA (CP)—Defense Minister Claxton said Friday night it would be fatal to Western European defense to cut Canada's air strength in Europe by half.

His statement, made in the Commons, was in reply to a suggestion by CCF leader M. J. Coldwell Thursday that Canada bring back six of her 12 Sabre jet squadrons on duty with North Atlantic Treaty forces in Europe.

Mr. Claxton said such a move would be the start of a decline in the alliances of Western countries. The gap could not be filled by the air forces in existence or planned by European countries.

Mr. Coldwell said Thursday his proposal was meant to strengthen home defenses and cut costs of maintaining planes too far from home.

Mr. Claxton said the Sabre is not a suitable plane for use in Canada because its range is too short. It would mean doubling or tripling the number of airfields at a cost of $30,000 each, and also increasing emergency airfields.

Mr. Coldwell also suggested bringing home one of Canada's three battalions in Korea.

UNFORTUNATE

Mr. Claxton replied that it would be most unfortunate for Canada or any other country to withdraw troops from Korea until there were further international developments.

The minister also dealt with other opposition suggestions on possible improvements in armaments.

He agreed with Douglas Harkness (PC, Calgary North) that the army does not have all the anti-aircraft regiments it would like. However, he said, this type of weapon was in a transition stage.

Beer and Wine To Be Served on B.C. Train Monday

VANCOUVER (CP)—Beer and wine will be served aboard a train for the first time under British Columbia's new liquor regulations Monday when the Kootenay Express pulls out for the Interior.

Ralph W. Ogilvie, sleeping and dining service superintendent for the CPR, said trains and boats were allowed to serve beer, wine and liquor under a license granted recently by the provincial government. However, until more facilities were set up, only beer and wine would be sold.

Target date for sale of spirits aboard boats was still about two weeks away, company officials said.

British Columbia is the only province in Canada which permits sale of liquor aboard trains and boats.

Lampson, Monterey Take Honors In Elementary Schools' Sports

Lampson Street and Monterey Schools were the big winners in the annual Greater Victoria elementary schools sports meet at Macdonald Park Friday.

Lampson Street scored 34½ points to lead the schools in the Grades 1-8 classification. Other results were South Park, 24; Tillicum, 22; Doncaster Heights, 20; McKenzie Avenue, 17½; Victoria West, 14½; Tolmie, 5.

ART in REVIEW

By COLIN GRAHAM

This month the Arts Centre's exhibition program breaks new ground. Those who relish rich glazes on good pottery forms will be glad to hear that at last we are able to show a reasonable comprehensive cross section of the work currently being done in this province in the field of ceramics.

The 50 or so pieces on view this week and next come to us from the 1954 B.C. Potter's Annual. Under the aegis of the Canadian Federation of Artists, this show has become a significant yearly event at the University of B.C.'s Fine Arts Gallery, through whose co-operation we have been able to obtain the exhibition. As a matter of fact, the show has a more than merely provincial significance. For what has been happening in Vancouver in recent years has been enough to gladden the vitals of anyone interested in the future of the crafts in this country.

THROUGH IODE GRANT

For one thing, there has developed at the university, as the result of a grant supplied by a very forward-looking chapter of the IODE, a small but first-rate pottery workshop. Describing the growth of this shop in the latest issue of "Canadian Art" Rene Bous, curator of the Fine Arts Gallery, notes the rise of new standards of quality resulting from instruction of master ceramists, some of whom came from as far as California.

A small group of distinct ceramic talents has emerged from the sessions organized by the workshop. How distinctive these talents are can be judged from the fact that at a recent show of the Canadian Handicrafts Guild in Montreal members of the shop took five of the 10 prizes available.

While this column has necessarily been written before the arrival of the show, my guess is that those of us here who have not had an opportunity to follow recent developments in Vancouver will find the pieces a definite and pleasurable surprise, both as regards quality and variety. Like the graphic arts, ceramics here and in Europe have been undergoing something of a renaissance in the past two decades.

ART OF ADVOCACY

Lloyd Paul Stryker, one of the great trial lawyers of the U.S., lectured on the vanishing vocation of advocacy at the Yale Law School a year ago. His speeches there were too good to be kept from laymen; so Mr. Stryker has eliminated technicalities, added some examples and come forth with "The Art of Advocacy." A plea for the Renaissance of the Trial Lawyer (Simon & Schuster) — a great treat for clubroom attorneys and courtroom buffs.

Best selling novel of 1952-1953, Thomas B. Costain's "The Silver Chalice" is now made available in paper back form by PermaBooks, Doubleday Publishers, Toronto. The same company has also published "Gone with the Wind" for 75 cents, and believe it or not, "Kon Tiki" with 80 pictures in a 35-cent edition.

OAK BAY BEACH HOTEL

Following our special Sunday evening concert on May 23 there will be a concert in the lounge by Adele Gouli, soprano and Joan Crivello, pianist.

Disillusioned On Communism

RETURN, by Florence V. Keys, Thomas Nelson & Sons (Canada) Ltd., $3.00.

This is a somewhat extraordinary volume. It is beautifully written in descriptive passages, but elsewhere is pretty well pointless.

The late Miss Keys has the main character, Philip Hardy, speaking of "imponderables." This word seems to be the key to the book itself. It beats about vaguely in that realm of political sophistry generally associated with pipe-smoking first-year philosophy students.

The "blurb" accompanying the book says it is an attempt to explain why so many intellectuals have been attracted to Communism and of their subsequent disillusionment.

Miss Keys was undoubtedly gifted with a keen sense of beauty and the book is well worth reading for this aspect alone. Unfortunately, she puts woman's thoughts in the hero's head.

Setting is in pre-revolution Europe, and her glowing descriptions of Switzerland are outstanding.

Before she died in 1951 the author was a Canadian and former university professor. She studied and traveled widely in Europe and as a representative at Geneva was closely associated with the regular staff of the League of Nations.

REVIEWS IN BRIEF

MISTER SHORTSTOP, by Duane Decker, George J. McLeod Ltd., Toronto, 185 pages, $3.

"Mister Shortstop," by Duane Decker, is a worthwhile contribution to Morrow Junior Book Library.

Briefly it is the story of a young ball player with big league talent and ambition frustrated by the fact there is always an olderster in the spot which he feels qualified to fill. Sold to a seventh-place club, shifted from one division to another, his big opportunity comes. He rises to the occasion. An old, old, theme but never failing when told as well as the author tells it.

TRoubles COME DOUBLE, by Robert P. Hansen, George J. McLeod Ltd., Toronto, 216 pages, $3. A few quotations will give you an idea of what to expect in Robert Hansen's California waterfront story, "Trouble Comes Double." "She sexed up her voice." "I had a hell of a time with that sleepy flatfoot." "The killer believed he was clobbering me." "I passed Jake's body." "If he gets a chance he'll kill you... Maybe." Let's have a drink darling.

For an exciting way of telling this type of story and getting his characters involved in tense situations this writer need take his hat off to no one.

GHOST CAT, by Helen Rushmore, George J. McLeod Ltd., 156 pages, $3. The combination of Helen Rushmore's gift of telling a story for readers approaching teen-age, and Reine Lonette's line illustrations, makes this an outstanding book for children. It is a happy family, mystery, fairy type of story telling of "the haunted house." "Bad Luck Cat?" "Witch Cave" and a hunt for a ghost. It makes an ideal gift at this time when interest in Christmas books is on the wane.

THE FRAGILE CHAIN, by Annie Morecroft, Dodd, Mead & Co., Toronto, 156 pages, $4. Annie Morecroft's "Fragile Chain" revolves around a family living in the United States and stresses the strong ties of affection which bind Italian families together.

It begins with a trip from Italy made by a well-known musician and his ailing wife to visit two sons whom they have not seen for 20 years.

The cordial welcome they receive makes them decide to make a long stay. Family troubles, an illicit love affair and the efforts of the kindly old head of the family to make peace before he returns to his native Italy round out an entertaining story.

THE RELAXED SELL, by Thomas Whiteside — Hilarious book about the fantastic world of the advertisers and promoters.

STAMP CORNER

By REG NAIRNE

One of the most curious errors in stamp production occurred in the 1913 issue of the Canal Zone. At that time the territory, which had been leased from Panama, was still using the stamps of the latter republic, overprinted "Canal Zone."

The stamps were of the bi-colored portrait type, the 2c red and black showing the head of Fernandez de Cordoba, while the 5c blue and black depicted the likeness of Justo Arosemena, a leader in the 1903 revolution.

The issue had been in use since 1909, so a new supply was ordered in 1913 from the American Bank Note Company of New York. In making up the order one of the printers made a slip. He ran a sheet of the 3c value through the press that had been prepared for printing the head for the 2c. The result of course was that every one of the 100 stamps that made up the sheet showed the wrong head!

NOTICED YEARS LATER

The sheet of errors became mixed in with the other 5c stamps, passed the inspectors without notice, and was eventually broken up and sold over the counter at the Canal Zone without anyone being the wiser. It was not until 1925 that a French collector while sorting out a cheap mixture noticed that he had a stamp that did not check with the catalogue. Not realizing the importance of his find he sold it to an American collector at what he thought was a good price. It received a great deal of publicity in the U.S., with the result that a second specimen was reported from New Zealand, also from a cheap packet. Since then five more have turned up, including one from Toronto, all in used condition.

The stamp is now priced at $1,200. The chances are that one or two more may be discovered, for it is a type of error which even an experienced dealer might easily overlook in his own stock.

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

Canada's publishing capital (that's Toronto whether the rest of the land likes it or not), was bustling this week with much talk of such matters as trade discounts, direct mail sales and the like of that. Reason: the retail booksellers of the nation were in convention. As conventions go, this is not a large one.

The three I have seen (the Canadian Retail Booksellers Association is but a babe in arms) could not compare with, say, the Miners and Prospectors or the Shriners. As far as these staid eyes could observe, the booksellers do not go in for fancy-colored pants, dropping pianos (with or without beautiful girls on top) of high hotel windows, or the DTs.

In short, they seem to behave exactly as you would expect anyone connected with the publishing industry in Canada to comport himself—serious, sane and sober. And how!

Lured by Television Dollars

Just the same, the booksellers do have their moments. One such this year was when they decided to bring up as their guest speaker the most peregrinating, the most ubiquitous, the jolliest and (depending on how you look at these things) the shrewdest or the corniest publisher New York has ever produced. I mean, of course, no other than Mr. Bennett Cerf, the genius of Random House, the originator of the Modern Library, the author of innumerable gag books, the speaker who is rumored to get between $750 and $1,000 per throw on the women's club circuit and the star of TV.

Mr. Cerf, I can report, threw no razzle-dazzle into the proceedings of the annual dinner beyond his usual quota of jokes without which he would be—well, not Bennett Cerf anyway.

Watching from afar, however, I thought I caught an ominous stirring in the trade winds which sent an eerie shiver down my spine.

Mr. Cerf didn't come right out and say it, but from his conversation it seemed quite obvious that, at the moment at least, he is a good deal more preoccupied by television than he is by publishing.

If this is not just a passing fancy on his part—or mine—then here is a sober thought for all book lovers. Mr. Cerf is a renowned and reliable backer of right horses. In the current battle between reading and watching, I'm not happy to think he might be laying odds on the 22-inch screen.

He might well be right too.

Alas.

Angry, Tangled Yarn

The most free-swinging prose to come up in this country so far this year is from Montreal's Mordca Richier in a first novel called The Acrobats—an angry and somewhat tangled yarn about a young Canadian painter who is, I gather, looking for love and God and, perhaps, the prize-winning design for a Canadian flag, in Spain.

In what is called "real life," these strange itinerant Canadians have been wandering all over Europe ever since the war, especially in Italy, France and Spain. They are the chaps who stoutly renounced DVA in favor of a spot of Old World neurosis. The good Lord-only knows they could have pampered their world-weariness just as nicely in Medicine Hat or Hamilton but I guess it's nicer in Capri.

Anyway, Mr. Richier has brought all his gripes back with him and the result is a lusty novel which pretty well follows the conventional North American recipe for "strong" fiction—equal parts of disillusionment, agony and boots-in-the-guts prose.

Thrilling But Concise

I wonder how many people have re-read, say, The Young Lions or The Naked and the Dead or The Gallery or From Here to Eternity lately?

Latest contribution to the expanding documentation of Canada's past comes from veteran in that field, W. Stewart Wallace in his new The Pedlars From Quebec. That was the name, used derogatively, applied to the Montreal fur traders by their rivals in the Hudson's Bay Company. The present study is a slim volume, tightly-packed in the manner of the expert historian.

In the hands of Thomas B. Costain, for example, these 98 pages would probably have made a volume of history and two or three historical novels. Maybe they will yet if some prose fictioneer latches on to them. In the meantime, there is a rather refreshing charm in the lean, matter-of-fact approach of Dr. Wallace who has never been a man to use a dozen words when one would do.

MORE PRIZE AUTHORS

B.C. English Writers Named Medal-Winners

Joan Walker of Kirkland Lake, Ont., is the winner of the Leacock Medal for humor for 1953, and Grace MacInnis of Vancouver has been awarded the University of British Columbia Medal for popular biography.

The awards were announced Friday night by Dr. Frank Stilling, chairman of the Governor-General's awards board, which administers the Leacock Medal for the Stephen Leacock Memorial Committee of Orillia, Ont., and the UBC Medal for the university.

Mrs. Walker received the Leacock Medal for her book "Pardon My Parka," recounting her experiences in the northwestern Quebec gold mining town of Val d'Or. She is an English-born writer who had two novels published in England before coming to Canada after the Second World War.

Mrs. MacInnis won the UBC award for the biography of her father, the late J. S. Woodsworth, CCF party founder who died in 1942.

EXPERIENCED WRITER

Joan Walker began her career with the Amalgamated Press in London, free-lancing in her spare time, and her stories under the pseudonym "Leonie Mason" have appeared in many English and Canadian magazines. At 22 she became editor of a children's magazine and later assistant editor of Woman's Friend, one of the larger women's magazines in England.

During the Second World War she worked for the ministry of information and then became a feature writer for the Sunday Dispatch. Her English novels were "East of Temple Bar" and "Murder by Accident."

She married James Walker in 1946 and came to Val d'Or, Que., where she gathered the experiences which contribute to the hilarity of "Pardon My Parka." Since finishing that book, she has been busy with another novel, a weekly radio program of book reviews for the Kirkland Lake radio station, and regular reviews for the Globe and Mail of Toronto.

POLITICAL BACKGROUND

Grace MacInnis is the eldest of six children of the late J. S. Woodsworth, for whose biography she won the UBC Medal. She graduated from University of Manitoba in 1936 and was Kingway, spend much time at working in her father's office at Ottawa when she married Vancouver.

GRACE MACINNIS

JOAN WALKER

Angus MacInnis in 1932, the year the CCF party was formed.

In the following years she worked and campaigned across the country and for five years was secretary of the CCF caucus at Ottawa.

Mrs. MacInnis was CCF member of the British Columbia legislature for Vancouver-Burrard from 1941 to 1945, and in 1946 was one of six Canadian delegates to the international assembly of women convened in New York state by a committee headed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. She and her husband, who is CCF member of parliament for Vancouver-Kingway, spend much time at Ottawa but make their home in Vancouver.

AUDREY SAYS:

French Drama Triumph Recalls Success in Victoria

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

The reputation for a second consecutive year, of annexing of the Dominion Drama Festival Calvert Trophy by a French-language play, written and performed by French-Canadians, is like a line of red drawn under some farewell remarks of the regional adjudicator, Graham Suter, and also certain personal observations of my own.

Those who were fortunate enough to have witnessed the winning French entry in Victoria last year, will recall that it was a vividly conceived drama, produced with a rich intensity of imagination, acted with superb realism in a starkly simple, clean-cut style.

This year the trophy went to

"Le Roi David," a dramatization of the biblical story of David and Bathsheba, written in classical French verse.

Director Henri Norbert was named best director for his "daring experiment of a new acting technique to put over a classical play to a modern audience."

The experiment was a departure from any recognized style, in which actors used voices and faces most exclusively to convey action and feeling, movement on the stage being kept to a minimum. Without having seen the production I should think the effect was almost that of the ancient Babylonian decorative frieze.

With the play depending to such a startling degree on vocal expression and clarity, certain words in Graham Suter's message published in a recent issue of the Dominion Drama Festival bulletin, leap out at one:

VOICE PROJECTION

"May I, however (this follows some complimentary remarks) beg you to improve on... projection of your voices as well as of ideas, feelings, and on your diction. Even when you are 'throwing away' your words should carry clearly to the back rows."

That is one of the great drawbacks in every festival I have attended: there is no vitality in the speech and so it is blurred and fuzzy. Distorted vowel and lazy consonants are almost unvaried, particularly among the young people in school festivals; but the majority of adults are guilty, too.

Self-satisfaction in regard to speech habits, a negative attitude toward any suggestion of improvement, is the general rule. There seems to be a false impression that the acquiring of a correct vowel scheme is synonymous with the acquiring of an "accent."

THEATRICAL EXPRESSION

Furthermore, it is obvious that these French groups do not hesitate to give free reign to their imagination. A quality Mr. Suter seems to have found considerably short in his cross-country junks, for he also pleads: "... improve on theatrical expression of your ideas (gestures, business, atmosphere, pace, climaxes)..."

Again I feel I can endorse Mr. Suter's comment out of my own experience. In far too many cases amateur directors are inclined to be sluggish in invention and to "follow the book" slavishly.

An adjudicator worth his salt will give credit every time for an original conception, providing, of course, that it heightens and does not destroy, the author's intention; the basic meaning of the play.

Nation's Interest Mounts In Shakespearean Festival

According to the latest report from the Stratford Shakespearean Festival campaign committee, ratio of contributions for the Canadian theatrical project represents a national interest.

Of the $120,000 objective, $36,645 has come from the theatre's home town, Stratford; $40,836 has been donated from outside of Stratford, including a $10,000 grant from the Atkinson Foundation.

The balance of the outside Stratford contributions represents the generosity of individuals and organizations right across Canada, from the actor

TYRONE GUTHRIE

Although last year's Stratford festival put Canada on North America's cultural map, word of its success did not spread to any extent to Europe, according to the festival director, Tyrone Guthrie. Dr. Guthrie recently arrived in Stratford, Ont., from Britain to start working on the second Shakespearean festival, which, he hopes, will raise Canada's cultural status throughout the world.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

What is the reason for wallflower plants being small this year with poor blossoms?

First, a good strain of seed is necessary for good plants, and sowing should be done in May so that strong, sturdy growth is made before winter. As with all the cabbage family, planting in a firm soil is essential, and pressing the soil around each plant after a strong wind prevents loosening of the roots, which retards development. Lime is also a requirement of good growth.

What procedure is necessary to have geraniums in flower during winter?

Young plants are selected now and all flower buds removed as they develop until October. The centre growth is pinched out to develop side shoots for bushiness.

Should I remove the new growths which are developing at soil level around the trunks of a young ornamental cherry?

Yes. These are most likely from the rootstock to which the ornamental variety has been grafted. Carefully loosen the earth around the trunk and trace each shoot to its point of origin. Remove the shoots by making a clean cut with a sharp knife so as to leave no stub from which further buds may develop.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

White callas which have been grown in pots may now be divided and planted out in a sheltered border for the summer.

House plants such as cyclamen, zygocactus truncatus (Christmas flowering cactus), pot azaleas and hydrangeas may be hardened by placing in a sheltered porch or coldframe prior to spending the summer outside.

Sow biennials now for flowering next year. These include Canterbury bells, forget-me-not, wallflower, sweet William and pansy.

Clear beds of early spring flowering plants as soon as possible and prepare the beds for plants which will make the summer display.

Prepare the celery trench. Sow small quantities of lettuce and radish seed for succession.

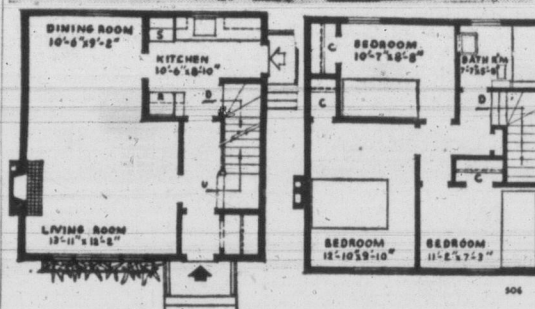

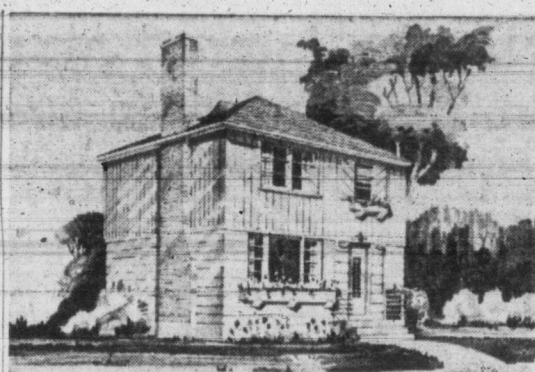

Sow New Zealand spinach for a supply during the hot weather.

To accomplish the maximum of work with the minimum of effort, keep all gardening tools sharp and clean.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q.—Is it necessary when gluing two pieces of wood together to put a lot of clamping pressure on them? Also, what kind of glue do you recommend for wood?—K.R.M.

A.—Use just enough pressure to hold two pieces together firmly. Too much squeezes glue out of the joint. Try a casein glue—a powder which you must mix with cold water—or a re-corned resin glue if the joint must be waterproof.

NHA Design-of-the-Month

This two-story house will be of interest to a family desiring a home which combines aesthetic appeal with economy of construction. The square plan employed means important savings in construction costs as there is a minimum of wall area and corners for the floor area provided. Another advantage of this design is that the house could be built on a narrow lot.

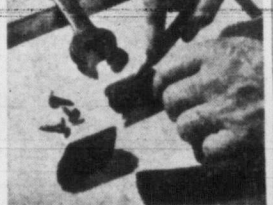

The combined living and dining rooms give a sense of spaciousness while providing a pleasant view of the rear garden from the dining area. However, if greater privacy is desired, the dining room could be partitioned off as a separate room. The fireplace is always a popular feature and, especially in the winter time, becomes a focal point for family activities.

The flower boxes beneath the front windows and the embossed wood effect at the sides of the doorway and upper window provide a satisfying touch of color and decoration to the exterior. Vertical wood siding is used on the upper story and horizontal wood siding on the lower.

The floor area is 979 square feet and the cubic measurement is 13,050 cubic feet. Exterior dimensions are 22 feet by 22 feet. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 506, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Canada harvested 139,000,000 pounds of tobacco in 1953, with a crop value of about $60,000,000.

FARM EXPERTS
The Dominion experimental farms system was inaugurated in 1886 with a central farm at Ottawa.

HANGER ROUND. You'll work faster and better if you organize your small tools. Make a tool hanger from short lengths of old garden hose, cut at an angle to simplify tacking on board. For wide tools like the flat wrench, slit the hose down the front.

PEELING PAINT

Vapor Main Trouble Manufacturers State

Failure of paint by peeling has become a major problem during the last few years and has brought complaints that manufacturers are turning out paints that are not as good as those in "the good old days." This manufacturers emphatically deny.

"The manufacture of paint and paint ingredients has improved over the years and present-day paints are longer lasting, more decorative and give better protection than ever before," says an authority on the subject.

Seldom is there peeling trouble with stucco houses painted with conventional water-thinned cement base stucco paints, but very often peeling will develop when an oil paint is used on top of this type of stucco paint. This because water-thinned paints can breathe and allow moisture laden air to pass through them. Putting an oil paint on and sealing the surface stops this moisture from passing through and it condenses and builds up behind the oil paint film in bubbles and blisters with subsequent peeling.

SIDING SHOULD BE PRIMED
Shingle or shake exteriors rarely show signs of peeling. Joints between shakes or shingles allow the passage of this moisture-laden air to the outside.

Cedar siding houses, however, are generally the bad actors.

Very often the siding is of a tongue and groove variety but, if not, the application of the siding is done in such a manner that there is little chance for vapor to escape to the outside from behind the siding, so that again vapor or moisture trying to get through to the outside comes up against this solid paint film and, building up pressure, causes blistering and subsequent peeling.

Siding should be back and end primed before application. Moisture and vapor are main problems and the modern house has more gadgets and appliances for creating moisture than ally shiplap) to the back of the cedar or other siding.

An expert on the subject writes: "We have removed portions of cedar siding from houses running to as high as 35 per cent moisture content."

When it is remembered that painting should not be done on lumber with a content of over 12 to 14 per cent moisture, it can readily be seen that peeling of paint generally, or failure of the paint, is almost certain.

Moisture meters can be had from some paint manufacturers to check this moisture content."

VENTILATION ESSENTIAL

The answer to the problem is ventilation in some form. Exhaust fans should be installed in kitchens and laundry rooms, exhausting the moisture-laden air to the outside.

Safe Use of Power Table Saws

STAND CALLED 'PETTY'

C of C Chief Scores Oak Bay Reeve's Amalgamation Talk

To condemn the wish to have the facts brought out on amalgamation of Victoria and surrounding municipalities is "petty," M. Aubrey Kent said Friday.

The chairman of the Chamber of Commerce civic affairs group added "and I tell the reeve of Oak Bay that."

(Reeve Fred Norris Thursday said he was opposed to amalgamation because personalized service received from individual municipalities would vanish if amalgamation took place.)

Mr. Kent was speaking at the monthly meeting of the chamber board of directors. He said the subject of amalgamation had been "kicked around" for years and "we won't get anywhere if that is the sort of attitude we have to face."

Cost of a survey to determine feasibility of amalgamation would be around $5,000, and would necessitate some contributions by the municipalities involved.

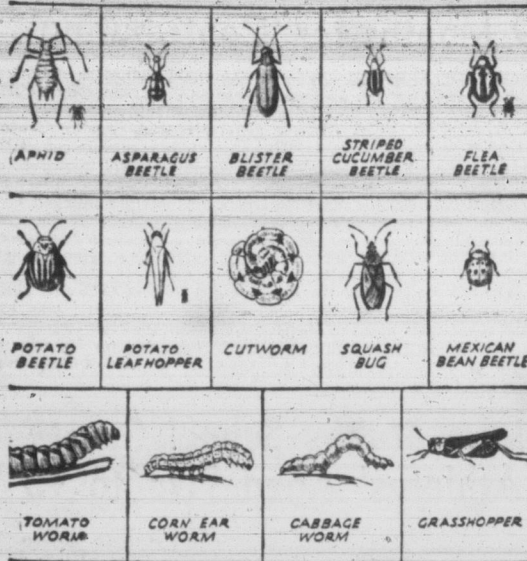

Director Tom Denny saw the survey of value to the area, if not immediately, in 10 or 20 years' time. It would be a basis for future planning, he indicated.

Director Geoffrey Ellis said also that until a definite expression was forwarded by municipalities on the question it would be a waste of public funds to proceed with a survey. There had been no representations made to Oak Bay council on amalgamation either by groups or individuals, he said.

A survey would not "do any harm. We should learn from Toronto," said Courtney Hadcock.

Reeve A. C. Wurtle of Esquimalt said his council would cooperate with any survey instituted, but that it was unlikely any money would go to the project.

The matter is under further study.

WITH THE FORCES

No 'Saturday Night' For RCAF Reserve

By ROY THORSON

"Saturday night soldier" does not describe today's Royal Canadian Air Force reserve.

"Training for reservists has advanced to such a point that it is nearly a full-time job for them in their after-work hours," said Pte. L. E. Davies, adjutant of the Victoria 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron.

He said the men and women in blue give many night hours and devote whole Sundays to keep in step with the march of today's air force radar-communications training.

FUN FOR FAMILIES

"We use up so much of the 'free time' of the average family man among us that we are going to do something about providing entertainment for the families," said Pte. L. E. Davies.

"They have been grand and we owe them a lot," the adjutant said plans were being made for Sunday night entertainment for families in the new Urban Centre at Yates and Quadra.

It will likely include attractions in the building's movie theatre. Movies, by the way, are one of the best of the RCAF's media to keep personnel up to date on developments in air equipment and strategy.

The local auxiliary radar squadron doesn't have parade worries like the Victoria reserve army, which is seriously under strength.

The squadron's total strength is about 250 and parade attendance is healthy, 85 to 90 per cent. "And we've got a fine backlog of people we can call to fill in holes created by personnel being let out for non-attendance and cannot measure up," said Sqdn. Ldr. W. M. Martin during a press tour of the centre.

YEAR IN TRAINING

Squadron chiefs said the man on active service took a year to become trained for the job. "On the basis of hours of training that means reservists must keep their noses to the grindstone for three years to become qualified in our end of air force operations," Sqdn. Ldr. Martin pointed out.

The centre, fully equipped and now going top speed 24 hours a day, would become the "vital nerve centre" if an enemy struck in the sector in charge of the squadron.

Rod Bain has been appointed squadron public relations officer, reports Pte. L. E. Davies.

The bench or circular saw is generally the first of the larger power tools a home craftsman buys. It enables him to make accurate rip and crosscuts and it helps make wood joints used by professional cabinetmakers. It saves time, labor and money.

But learning to use a circular table saw is sometimes a painful experience. Experience is a fine teacher, but a few pointers on safe techniques for basic ripping and crosscutting operations should be a lot less distressing.

Here they are, as spelled out by power-tool experts of the Rockwell Mfg. Co.:

RIPPING

Ripping is the operation of making a lengthwise cut through a board, with the grain of the wood. On the saw, one edge of the work rides against the guide fence, and the bottom of the work rests on the saw table. These contact surfaces (fence and table) must be reasonably straight and true, or the wood will buckle and kick back.

The saw blade should not project more than an eighth of an inch above the thickness of the stock to be cut.

Stand behind the saw in a position that seems most comfortable, feel solidly placed, hold work with both hands and push it into the blade with pressure against the fence. Use a push stick if distance between blade and fence is less than two inches.

In ripping long boards, use an out-feed table or roller some distance from the machine so that the board will remain on a level with saw table throughout the cut.

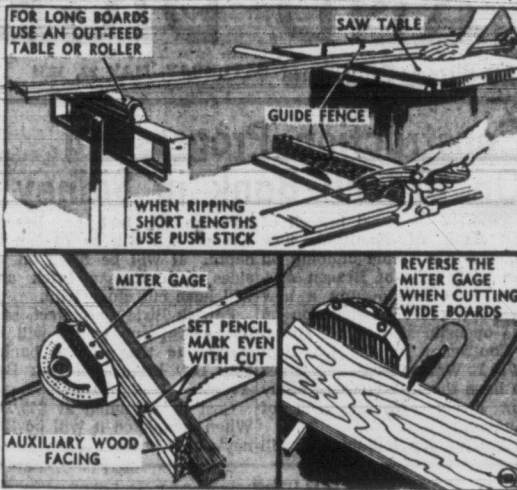

CROSSCUTTING

Crosscuts are made by placing the work against a miter gauge and advancing gauge and work toward the saw.

All crosscutting operations should be worked with a miter gauge fitted with an auxiliary wood facing. Besides its safety factor, the facing also comes

Duncan Records Job Vacancies

Unemployment Problem Solved By Prevailing Warm Weather

DUNCAN—Total number of applicants for employment is now at an almost irreducible level in this area since the large percentage of employable persons are at work, according to R. S. Robinson, Duncan manager of the National Employment Service.

Vacancies for skilled help are difficult to fill and in the logging industry it has been necessary in some cases to use inexperienced personnel for the more menial jobs. This condition of almost total employment is expected to continue for the summer months at least, unless the prolonged dry spell being experienced should culminate in a woods closure due to fire hazard.

Gail Petrie Begins Reign In Nanaimo

New May Queen Assumes Throne

NANAIMO—Thousands watched the crowning of May Queen Gail Petrie in Civic Arena Friday, launching Nanaimo's three-day Empire Day celebrations which are expected to draw a record crowd from the Island and the Mainland.

Carol Simmons, the new queen's predecessor, performed the crowning of blond, 12-year-old Gail, who urged her subjects to enjoy the holiday event, largest in the city's 100 years of observance.

An honor guard of sea and air cadets lined the aisle up which retiring queen Carol was escorted, by Mayor George Muir, while queen-elect Gail came in on the arm of school board chairman John Rayer.

Their entrance was marked by a flourish from the bugle band of Lions No. 205 Air Cadet Squadron, and the Nanaimo and district pipe band escorted the whole procession. Honor guard was commanded by Lieut. G. A. Black.

By order of the new queen, events got under way, beginning with a folk dance demonstration by 850 school pupils.

Queen Gail's attendants included Jeannette Koster and Shirley Volden, maids of honor; Astrid Einarson and Sharen Marshall, flower girls; and Delbert Horrocks, page boy.

The crowning of the May queen at Nanaimo has become the feature of the city's celebrations since pioneer days, and is carried out largely by Nanaimo district schools.

Construction Progressing On Branch Bank in Sidney

SIDNEY—Local branch of the Bank of Montreal, now housed in a frame building on the north side of Beacon Avenue, soon will occupy a new building under construction on the opposite side of the street.

Contractor for the job, firm of S. E. Weismiller & Son, hopes to have the new building ready for owners by the end of August.

A one-story building, it will measure 36 feet on Beacon Avenue and be 70 feet in depth. It will be faced on all sides with Roman brick and will have cut stone trim.

Patrick Birley, architect, said its general appearance will be similar to that of the bank's Oak Bay branch on Oak Bay Avenue.

Cost is estimated at $45,000. When completed it will be Sidney's only bank.

Blood Transfusion Call Saves Life of Logger

Red Cross chalked up another life saved in Victoria this week—thanks to the Blood Transfusion Service.

Officials disclosed today that logging truck driver, Melvin Lohr, Royal Oak, who underwent emergency surgery after he was crushed by a huge log, required nine pints of blood.

The call went out and the Red Cross answered it.

But officials point out it may not always be that simple. The stocks of blood plasma and the stocks of blood for manufacture of Gamma Globulin, for polio prevention, must be maintained by public donation.

"Today, we are scraping the bottom of the barrel," the Red Cross workers point out.

The mobile blood clinic will visit Victoria again next week and its goal will be collection of 600 points. An additional 300 will be sought in Sidney.

Tuesday and Wednesday the clinic will be at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort, 1.30 to 4.30 and 7 to 9.30 p.m. Same hours will apply at the K of P Hall in Sidney, Thursday.

U.K. REVEALS FIGURES ON EXPORTS TO REDS

LONDON (AP)—The Board of Trade announced today that British exports to Soviet Russia in the six months ended May 15, totaled £3,763,288, and that an additional £236,508 worth of goods went to Communist China.

The British government says it strictly enforces the Western Allies' embargo on the shipment of strategic goods to the Communist world. British exports to Russia and Red China during the period amounted to only a fraction of the country's total overseas trade.

BUSINESS REVIEW

U.S. Upturn Signs Increase

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Business perked-up in some lines this week; slackened off in others. There were whisperings of an upturn in steel production.

Building activity continued on a high plane. Auto output was at its highest point since mid-August; volume of freight loaded by United States railroads was the highest since November. Signs of improvement were noted in demand for steel scrap, copper and Texas crude oil.

The stock market neared the peak levels of the early 1930s.

RETAIL SALES HIGH

Cold, wet weather put a damper on retail trade in many areas but the rain clouds were not without a silver lining. Two of the biggest five-and-dime store chains, F. W. Woolworth and S. S. Kresge, held their annual stockholder meetings. Woolworth president J. T. Leftwich said sales of the company's 2,000 stores in the first five months this year are expected to show a record volume of a year ago. Kresge's chief executive, F. P. Williams, said his company's 1954 business is expected to hit an all-time high. Both chains have budgeted record sums for new store construction.

UNEMPLOYMENT BEELS

In some industries there were continuing complaints of unemployment, cutbacks and loss of over time. At the start of contract negotiations with U.S. Steel Corp., the CIO Steelworkers' union said it would demand a six-hour day with full eight-hour pay unless the industry takes steps to overcome its present "unemployment crisis."

The upturn in auto production was pretty much confined to the industry's "big two," Ford and General Motors. Chrysler Corp. continued to restrict its operations to dealer demand; Studebaker, which has been following an off-again, on-again schedule for some months, ordered another one-week shutdown of passenger car output at its main South Bend, Ind., plant.

DEALERS' PROFIT CUT

New car sales are continuing at near-record levels, but volume is being maintained at a considerable sacrifice of dealer margins. The steady decline in mine and factory output that started back in August may have come to a halt last month. That's the interpretation being placed on the federal reserve board's latest industrial production index. From August until March the index had slipped lower every month, but in April it held steady, at 123, breaking an eight-month drop.

$1,000 National Award Goal of Victoria Jaycees

Victoria Jaycees are making a bid to be chosen Canada's outstanding Junior Chamber of Commerce organization.

The Victoria body has entered a national contest to find the Jaycee group that has achieved the most during the past year. A $1,000 cash prize and a trophy will be the winner's spoils.

Last year Vancouver won the award, and Victoria members are hoping to keep the trophy in B.C.

A list of the year's activities of the organization include the B.C. Products Fair, junior citizenship contest, liquor and mayoralty forums, Little League baseball, Christmas lighting contest, get-out-the-vote campaigns, and the organizing of Victoria's May Queen crowning ceremonies.

The B.C. Products Fair will be used as an example of the group's most outstanding single project.

A scrapbook of the city Jaycees' activities and achievements is being prepared. It will be sent to National Junior Chamber of Commerce headquarters in Montreal for judging May 31.

Quarter-Million Enlargement Seen for North Saanich School

Additions to the North Saanich Junior-Senior High School costing $240,000 will be made if the $1,400,000 School District No. 63 referendum passes May 29, it was learned today.

Work proposed on the Mount Newton High School will cost $141,000, while it is planned to spend $107,000 on the Royal Oak Junior High School and $30,000 on Royal Oak Elementary School.

Other school jobs planned, with costs, follow: Cordova Bay, $79,000; Brentwood, $69,000; Sidney, $39,000; Wainwright, $38,000; Howe Road and Wallace Drive, $38,000; Oldfield Road, $38,000; Deep Cove, $20,000.

In addition, provision is made for eight elementary unassigned classrooms costing $110,000 and for six secondary unassigned classrooms costing a total of $90,000.

SEWER JOB LET

Ralph A. Futcher has secured a $27,000 sewer contract from Oak Bay municipality, municipal engineer A. S. G. Musgrave disclosed. Work involves digging and laying of 8,700 feet of vitrified pipe and 6,700 feet of clay tile drain.

Selected tenders will close with architects Whitaker and Wagg June 2 for construction of St. Mary's church hall on Eastdown Road at Neil Street, Oak Bay. Local contractors figuring in the job are Luney Bros. & Hamilton, George H. Wheaton Ltd., McKinty & Sons, Farmer Construction Ltd., Commonwealth Construction Co.

APPOINTMENT of J. E. Nickson to the newly established position of general director of Trans-Canada Air Lines is announced by W. Gordon Wood, vice-president in charge of traffic. Mr. Nickson was formerly director of traffic services. A native of Vancouver, the airline's new general traffic director was educated at the Prince of Wales public school there, and later attended Brentwood College at Victoria.

'Grand Howl' Planned by 1,200 Cubs

More than 1,200 green-capped Cubs will gather on Heywood Avenue football field June 5, to pledge their allegiance to scouting principles with the long-drawn "Grand Howl."

It will be the biggest rally ever held here, according to Freeman King, executive commissioner of the Greater Victoria Boy Scouts Association.

The "Grand Howl" will highlight the Cubs' annual field day, when the boys show parents and friends what they have learned in their short time with the scouting movement.

Nearly 60 Cub packs from this area, Jordan River and Deep Cove, will take part.

New Debenture Issue Planned by Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Tenders are being called for a new issue of Province of Quebec debentures, totalling $34,500,000 with a term of 15 years and slated to carry a coupon rate of 3 per cent.

Purpose of the issue has not been officially announced but it is believed likely that the proceeds will be applied to finance the refunding of several outstanding issues in advance of maturity.

Dominion Stores' Sales, Earnings Set New Records

Dominion Stores Ltd. sales reached a new peak in the 52 weeks ended March 20, 1954. The firm's annual report shows sales totaled $140,561,433, 16.5 per cent above the previous year's total. Net earnings also set a record at $2,534,490 ($2.01 per share), a 22 per cent increase on last year's $2,077,038 ($1.64 per share).

Trades Start Tuesday

New Taku Mines Ltd. share will be called for trading on Vancouver stock exchange Tuesday. Ticker abbreviation will be NTM.

New Taku is the outgrowth of reorganization of Taku River Gold Mines Ltd., acquired by Numalak Mines Ltd. recently. Shares of Taku River Gold are exchangeable for New Taku on a 4:1 basis.

Ltd., and J. A. Pollard Construction Ltd.

Plans have been prepared by Clark & Clayton for the first unit of an auto court to be built at 17-mile on the Malahat highway, R. Wensley, the owner, expects to have the initial unit completed in time for the seasonal tourist trade.

Designed by Patrick Briley, a four-suite apartment block is being erected at 1245 Pandora Avenue by S. E. Weismiller & Sons. Cost is $20,000.

James, Polson & Siddall, architects, are drawing plans for a warehouse and office building for Andrew Sheret Ltd. on Bay Street. Tenders will be called in about a month's time. The structure will comprise 15,000 square feet of warehouse space and nearly 3,000 feet of showroom and office space.

NEW RULING ON TAXABLE ALTERATIONS

Some Structural Changes Tax-Free

OTTAWA (CP)—The Income Tax Appeal Board has ruled that costs involved in making certain alterations to commercial buildings can be deducted as an expense for income tax purposes.

It granted in part the appeal of Boyd Building Ltd. owners of a Winnipeg building in which the Sovereign Life Assurance Co. of Canada is a tenant.

The Boyd Company claimed $11,425 as an expense in its 1951 tax return, representing costs in making building alterations to provide the insurance company tenant with more space.

The revenue department rejected the claim, ruling that the costs involved are not expenses but capital outlays subject of capital cost allowances, rather than deduction from income.

R. S. W. Fordham, income tax board member who heard the resulting appeal, said he found the principle involved so important that he referred it to the full four-man board.

"The matter of when the cost of alterations and repairs to a commercial building made by the owners thereof may properly be deducted by them from income has long been a troublesome one," he said in his judgment.

RULED DEDUCTION

He ruled and his colleagues concurred, that "where an owner has to make alterations that cannot benefit the building as an entirety and will only be of use to the immediate tenant, it seems meet and proper to allow their cost—with certain exceptions—as a deduction in the year in which this was incurred."

"In such a situation," he said, "it does not consider that the cost should be regarded as a capital outlay."

He allowed $9,330 of the $11,425 claimed as a deductible expense.

On the basis of the Boyd decision Mr. Fordham also allowed in part three other appeals by the estate of Abraham H. Arnovitch and Edgar J. Arnovitch, also of Winnipeg.

TORONTO EXCHANGE REVIEW

Crisis in Far East Stirs Stock Traders

By GEORGE LINTON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock prices moved upward with some of the heaviest trading in months on North America's three biggest exchanges this week.

Champions at Any Gathering

The weather and the girls were beautiful. And a large crowd of screaming high school athletes was on hand to acclaim school favorites at the annual inter-high school track and field championships which concluded Friday afternoon at the Gyro cinder track at Victoria High School. Here, four school lovelies, although they won no individual champions and were not selected to the representative team, show they would be favorites at any track meet. Left to right, Pat Lisle, Esquimalt; Marilyn Wilson, Victoria High; Bev Keuhl, Mount View, and Erica Williams of Oak Bay. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

It's getting so a ballplayer can't sip on a brew now and then without looking over his shoulder to see who's in the next booth.

It was ever thus, really, regardless of what club owners say. If their own private eyes were not on the job, then some goodwill citizen would always volunteer the information.

Most of the players—at least those who are inclined to relax freely at times after pursuit of duty has ended—know they are recognized for what they are in the public eye.

They can't have more than a beer or two without someone who has lingered longer proclaiming to one and all: "This is my pal Joe, of the Beantown Belters. Good old Joe."

But if Joe doesn't get three for four the next night, his same fairweather pal of the moment the previous evening will be the first to condemn him for what he isn't.

But even at that ballplayers of today aren't really any different than they were last year, or 20 years ago. It's just a new breed with new ideas but the same old tricks, human as they all are.

You seldom read in print of the off-duty escapades of today's heroes. It's hush-hush now and the administering of the cane to the wayward takes place behind locked doors and not in the public square.

Some Did Better Than All Right

Even the average manager will have a social drink now and then, just as veterans have been known to partake of a cocktail at dinner. And most will agree that there is nothing wrong with a little beer drinking, providing it is done in moderation.

Babe Ruth made news with more than his bat in his heyday of prohibition. He and a few of his Yankee cronies used to take their nourishment on off days in a brewery cellar with cold cuts of beef on the side. And they did better than most, which was better than all right at the time.

But still the real fall guy is the team manager and it's usually he and his hired help who do the tailing or have the necessary contacts. "This said that the reason Bucky Harris didn't stay long with the Yankees before Casey Stengel's era is that he didn't know how to say "No" to some of the team and make it stick.

The manager can't mamby-pamby his high-spirited stock and expect them to obey the strictest of curfew laws. Nor can he be good guy—let the disease become contagious and lasting.

Disciplinary problems are part and parcel of every team and every league.

Eddie Fast, But Cops Faster

For example, it wasn't so long ago that a piece of news oozed out of Milwaukee that Eddie Mathews of the Braves gave it a great try before he was outrun by the cops at 3 in the morning.

Not that there's anything wrong with racing policemen. But when else but in the wee hours of the morning can ball players engage in this pleasure. The ball game doesn't usually end until 11 or 11:30 and the poor guy has got to eat first.

Night baseball has produced a new set of entertainment seekers, and though they're in the minority, it must be admitted the ball player's life isn't a normal one.

It's a wonder they don't go batty and take a few fans and sports writers along with them.

"Hey Mike—Draw two!"

WINTER GETS MENTION

Ferguson Retains Lead in Fan Poll

A new face popped up in the Times Amateur Athlete of the Year Contest, but two old faces predominated.

Young Pete Winter, who has done such a fine job of replacing Bill McAllister in goal for the Victoria United soccer club, drew his first recognition in the form of a fan ballot this week.

However, Winter was on the outside looking in as Whitey

TRACK CHAMPS NAMED

Dobbie, Harris Switch Titles

By RON COULTER

Share and share alike is apparently the motto of Esquimalt High School track and field athletes.

Last year lanky Bill Dobbie racked up enough points to take the school senior boys' individual aggregate point championship, teammate Gerry Harris topping the annual inter-high track and field individual title.

This year the positions were reversed. Harris captured the school title and Dobbie, Friday afternoon, won the inter-high crown.

It was a great victory for Dobbie, who climaxed his climb to the title by winning the senior boys' 440-yard event in near-record time.

Dobbie compiled a total of 19 points in winning the crown, Harris being second with 17½.

HAEGERT SETS MARK
Speedy Joe Haegert, colorful YMCA junior runner, took the junior boys' championship with 15 points. He posted a new record in the 220-yard sprint when he crossed the tape in 23.8 seconds, one full second off the former mark of 24.8 held by Harris.

Haegert was also a member of the Victoria High School junior boys' medley relay team which timed in at 1:47.3 to establish a new mark in that event, beating the old time of 1:48.9 set by Victoria High in 1950.

Victoria High's Connie Sampson annexed the junior girls' title with 22½ points. Miss Sampson sprained her ankle Friday afternoon, but continued to compete despite the injury.

OAK BAY CHAMP
Claudia Gelling of Oak Bay took the senior girls' crown with 12½ points, a two and one-half point bulge over runner-up Sue Burnett, also of Oak Bay.

Victoria High School successfully defended its Roy Jones Memorial Trophy for the highest number of points won by a school. Victoria High had a total of 161½ points, while Oak Bay placed second at 106½, and Esquimalt took third at 85½.

The Greater Victoria Inter-High Trophy for the highest school total points on a calculated basis was taken by Esquimalt with 191 points. Victoria High, 162½; Oak Bay, 142; and Mount View at 110 followed.

Following the meet, inter-high school officials chose a team of 11 thinclads to represent the Greater Victoria area at the British Columbia track and field championships at Kelowna next Friday and Saturday.

Dobbie, Harris and Francis Magwood will be running for Esquimalt, while Dave Taylor, Sue Burnett and Miss Gelling were chosen from Oak Bay.

Harry Stephens, Dick Penney, Mike Chambers and Dan Miller were Victoria High athletes named to the representative team. George Robbins was the Mount View thinclad chosen.

Three City Golfers Qualify in B.C. Meet

Farley Best of Canadians

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (CP) — Defending champion Joe Carr today took a practice trip round Muirfield's links, and the experts are talking about a second straight win for the Irishman in the 59th British amateur golf championship opening Monday. But the Canadian team is coming in for attention, too.

Carr said there may be a "dark horse" in this year's field. "Don't forget we have got the boys from Canada, South Africa, New Zealand, and Australia here. One of them may surprise us—and the Americans."

Phil Farley of Toronto got a 69 in a practice round Thursday for the best Canadian showing so far. Others in the team, captained by Gordon Taylor of Montreal, are Don Doe of Granby, Que., Bob Fleming of Victoria who had a 76, and Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta.

Matthews Arrives
LONDON (AP) — Heavyweight Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle arrived in London Friday to finish training for his June 1 return bout with Don Cockell of England at White City Stadium.

Cockell, British Empire heavyweight champion, outpointed Matthews in a Seattle 10-rounder last August.

Three Victorians qualified for match play in the British Columbia Amateur golf championships at Vancouver's Capilano Golf Club Friday.

They were Frank Scroggs of Uplands with a 72-76-148; Vic Painter of Colwood, 76-77-153; and Bob Morrison of Uplands, 78-78-156.

Medal honors went to Doug Bajus of Point Grey with a 74-67-141.

Thirty-two qualified for the championship, which concludes Monday.

Qualifiers follow:
Bajus 74, 67-141; Ticehurst 72, 70-142; Briggs 72, 74-147; Johnston 72, 75-148; Frank Scroggs 72, 76-149; Don Eitford 71, 71-148; Crawford 74, 72-147; Harold Rice 74, 72-148; McKenzie 72, 77-149; Edgell 74, 76-150; Ellis 76, 78-151; Dick Hanley 77, 74-151; Bob Doyle 75-151; John Russell 74, 77-151; Kidd 76, 76-152; Vic Painter 76, 77-153; Riley 75, 77-154; Reynolds 77, 77-154; Brian Cope 80, 74-154; Bob Porter 81, 74-155; Hans Swinton 77, 78-156; Jack Fox 81, 75-156; Bob Morrison 78, 78-156; Benney Doyle 77, 79-156; Herb Janis 81, 79-156; George Cotton 81, 79-156; Len Morgan 82, 74-157; John Olson 80, 77-157; Dave Berg 82, 75-157; Tom Ross 75, 83-158; Emmett Ritchie 78, 79-158; Babs Goodfellow 74, 84-158.

TITLE FIGHT POSTPONED

NEW YORK (AP) — Lightweight champion Paddy DeMarco has been taken to hospital with a virus infection and his June 2 title defense against Jimmy Carter in San Francisco has been postponed until September, the International Boxing Club said today.

Langlois Upsets Giardello

NEW YORK (AP) — Pierre Langlois, third upset winner in a week from Jean Bretonnel's fighting French stable, scrambled middleweight title plans by manhandling Joey Giardello in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Giardello was in line for an October shot at Bobo Olson's crown—if the champ got past Rocky Castellani in August. Now Langlois is screaming for the champ.

Harry Markson, watchdog of the International Boxing Club, said he'd like to stage a Langlois-Giardello rematch. "One loss doesn't put him (Joey) out of the league," he said.

The lone knockdown of the fight came in the ninth when Langlois landed a solid counter-right-to-the-jaw, a punch Bretonnel said they had practised all week. Giardello got up at about two, but took the automatic eight and one more for good measure standing in a corner.

Bays Edge Jokers

Foul Bay 4, Jokers 2

Defending champion Foul Bay, Friday night, moved two points out front of second-place Nanaimo in the Victoria Senior B Lacrosse League by edging winless Jokers, 4-2, at Stevenson Park.

Art Green, Lorne Oakley, Bobby Showers and Jack Reid each scored once to give the undefeated defending titlists their third straight victory. Wilf Scott tallied both counters for the losers.

Only 10 penalties were called in the rough game as the referees failed to clamp down on slashing and rough play.

Two games are scheduled for Memorial Arena Tuesday night. Foul Bay meeting Navy at 7 and Jokers tangling with Nanaimo in the second contest at 8:30.

Standings follow:

Team	W	L	Pts
Foul Bay	2	0	4
Nanaimo	2	0	4
Navy	1	3	2
Jokers	0	3	0

Mt. Douglas Champions Repeat

Barrie Custance and Joan Sutherland were repeat champions in the annual Mount Douglas High School track and field championships Friday. Custance took the senior boys' aggregate with three first and three seconds while Miss Sutherland had two firsts and one second to take the senior girls' title.

D. Skillings and Carol Campbell won the junior boys' and junior girls' championships respectively.

Results follow:
JUNIOR GIRLS
80 Yards—1. Carol Campbell; 2. Barbara Blacklock; 3. Lea-Kay Smith.

YOUTH MEETS EXPERIENCE
A tested veteran and a junior champion are scheduled to match strokes in the feature semifinal match of the Gorge Vale Golf Club's men's championship at the club course Sunday.

John Merriman, who was ousted in the semis of the Vancouver Island Open two weeks ago by Hugh Morrison, will be seeking a finals berth in the club championship when he tees off against club junior champion Norm Boden.

In the other semis, Dave Fathorpe and Bob Wood will meet in match play, the winner entering the finals.

USED CARS and TRUCKS

have to be tops to rate this sign and they're backed by the man behind this sign!

IT'S WHERE YOU BUY THAT COUNTS

When you buy an A-1 used car or truck at the familiar Ford-Monarch sign, you're dealing with a man who is in business to stay. He has a stake in your community... he wants to go on doing business with you, now and in the future, and he knows that your confidence is his most valuable asset. You're dealing with a man who really knows cars, too... and he has the equipment and the trained staff to put them in A-1 condition.

When your Ford-Monarch Dealer puts the A-1 sign on a used car or truck, it means he has checked it, inspected it and reconditioned it for appearance and performance... and he's ready to back it up with his reputation. For the best deal in town, always look for the A-1 sign... the sure guide to satisfaction in a thoroughly trustworthy used car or truck—one that will give you many, many miles of satisfying driving!

WHAT A-1 MEANS
EVERY USED CAR & TRUCK THAT RATES THE A-1 SIGN HAS BEEN

- Reconditioned by expert servicemen for appearance and performance.
- Inspected and checked for safety.
- Priced for outstanding value.
- Truthfully and accurately advertised.

King of the Bees

with YUPYOP

By JACK KENT

THAT KING ARRO, IS A BEE... Besicla aculeatus... THERE ARE AS YOU KNOW, THREE KINDS OF BEES... "B. mater", "B. pater", AND THE CLOSELY RELATED SUB-SPECIES... "B. jr."

WHEN A BEE FINDS A GOOD SOURCE OF HONEY, HE GOES TO THE HIVE AND DOES A LITTLE DANCE - THE DANCE TELLS THE OTHERS WHERE THE HONEY IS -

WHY GO TO ALL THAT BOTHER? WHY DON'T THEY JUST POINT TO IT?

THE PROF. SAYS BEES COMMUNICATE WITH EACH OTHER BY DANCING!

QUITE SO - AS IN BALLET AND OTHER FORMS OF CHARADES, EVERY LITTLE MOVEMENT HAS A MEANING. ALL ITS OWN - THE DANCE TELLS A STORY -

THAT'S GOOD, KING ARRO - IT'S TIME YOU KNEW -

PROF. YORGLIE HAS BEEN TELLING ME ALL ABOUT THE BEES, YUPYOP -

MAY I POINT OUT, KING ARRO, THAT IT'S IMPOLITE TO POINT?

I SEE YOUR POINT.

LET'S SEE... "ONCE UPON A TIME, AT A QUARTER PAST THREE, THERE WAS A KNOCK AT THE DOOR AND..."

WHAT DOOR?

WHAT STORY IS HE TELLING?

I MEANT, THE DOOR OF WHAT? YOU SEEM TO HAVE LEFT OUT PARTS OF THE STORY -

WHY WAS THE BEAUTIFUL PRINCESS (WHO'D BEEN TURNED INTO A MOUSE), STANDING ON A CHAIR, CRYING "EEK! EEEK! EEEK!"?

IS IT JUNE YET, YUPYOP?

NOT YET, LITTLE JUNE BUG - NOT QUITE YET -

PROF. YORGLIE IS TELLING US THE STORY BEHIND THAT BEE'S DANCE.

THAT'S NO DANCE! HE'S GOT A CHILL! AND THE STORY BEHIND IT IS THAT HE GOT FROST-BITTEN FROM A "SNOW POPPY"!

Summer—and religious education camps—are fast approaching.

A note from Mrs. Peggy Hughes reminds us to remind our readers of an adult summer activity that is little known here. It is the "Camp Farthest Out" being held at University School from July 24 through August 1.

Dr. Glenn Clark, noted preacher and writer, founded "Camps Farthest Out" in 1930, and in the quarter century since then they have spread like wildfire about the world.

The heart of the camps is complete belief in prayer—says Glenn Clark: "Prayer is governed by the same laws that control the flow of a stream, the art of a game, the life of a bee. A man who learns and practices them correctly should be able to play golf better, do business better, love better, serve better. For to learn how to pray is to learn how to live."

Camps emphasize learning "how to live." The emphasis is hot upon withdrawing from life into a heritage of meditation, but rather the normalcy and naturalness of finding in life the spiritual realities that lie beneath the surface.

Provision is made every day for a period of personal recreation. There are facilities for sports and games to suit every age.

One hour of each day is devoted to creative painting or creative writing. These are not periods of training for those who know anything about painting or writing. On the contrary, they are specifically for those without training. The idea is not to paint or to write something worthy of praise. The purpose is to teach the campers to relax in a creative mood. "Camp Farthest Out" at University School promises to attract interesting people from all parts of the Island and the mainland.

Further information, and camp applications, may be obtained from Mrs. Peggy Hughes, 1907 Shotbolt Road. (Phone 3-9739.)

Vancouver Salmon Price Talks End Without Decision

VANCOUVER (CP)—Negotiations to set a 1954 price for West Coast salmon broke down Friday and no further meetings were scheduled.

Price proposals put forward by the B.C. Fisheries Association, representing operators, were rejected by a joint salmon price negotiating committee which presented its own proposals. They also were rejected.

Fishermen, represented by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, the Native Brotherhood of B.C. and the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association, propose 25 cents a pound for sockeye in all areas. They also ask payment by operators of workmen's compensation for gill-net fishermen, and improved clause on the payment of union dues, and other concessions.

Operators propose 19½ cents for sockeye in the Fraser and Skeena Rivers and 17½ cents off Cape Caution and Ogden Channel.

Dairy Obtains Order Against Milk Board

VANCOUVER (CP)—Everett Crowley, president and manager of Avalon Dairy here Friday obtained an order from Mr. Justice J. M. Coady in Supreme Court calling on the provincial milk board to show cause on May 31 why it should not issue the dairy a license.

The board refused to renew the dairy's license on April 1, because it had not established financial responsibility by putting up a bond.

Pronoun Threatened Japanese Peace Pact

I WAS AN AMERICAN SPY by Sidney F. Mashbir, Vantage Press, New York.

The changing of a pronoun in the Japanese surrender documents signed September 2, 1945, on the battleship Missouri may become a footnote of history. The man responsible for the change—contends that it went far toward insuring a peaceful military occupation of Japan.

The story of the pronoun is told by Sidney F. Mashbir, a retired U.S. army colonel, in his autobiography, I was an American Spy.

A Japanese delegation went to Manila in mid-August, 1945, to receive Gen. Douglas MacArthur's surrender orders. Mashbir was chief of MacArthur's translation and interpretation section. From Washington had come instructions that Emperor Hirohito should issue a surrender rescript, the exact wording of which was to be dictated by the Allies.

When the draft was read, the Japanese delegates turned pale. It called for the Emperor to use the first person pronoun in the rescript. "I, the Emperor," it said.

Principal reason for the school's closing was lack of funds, the president said.

Moulton College Will Close Down

City Group Backs JBC Child Centre

Endorsement of a Vancouver child development centre, established by the JBC, was given at the annual meeting of the Nursery School Association of Victoria.

The idea was originally presented by the Pre-School Association of Vancouver.

Guest speaker, William Hooson, Victoria director of health and welfare, drew questions from his audience using the title, "Can We Afford to Do Without Nursery Schools?"

The meeting agreed that good nursery schools might lead toward better child development.

Officers elected for the new season include: Mrs. A. J. Tullis, president; Mrs. H. Beck, vice-president; Mrs. V. Hooper, treasurer; Dr. H. R. Anderson, secretary; Miss C. McNab, Mrs. W. Marshall, Mrs. S. Holms, board members; and Mrs. H. M. Edmiston and Mrs. A. E. Trotter representing the Victoria Nursery School.

PARKSVILLE CHURCH WILL COST $35,000

PARKSVILLE—Anglicans of this area will proceed immediately with the construction of the new church of St. Edmunds.

The plans, prepared by Clark and Clayton, of Victoria, were approved this week by the Synod, leaving the way clear for erection of the $35,000 edifice.

The entire front of the church will be featured by glass extending into the steeply pitched roof, interspersed with stained windows on the floor level.

The site, which at present includes the church hall, is located on Memorial Avenue.

CHRISTIAN SPIRIT IN WELFARE

Atom Age Man Lost in Own Findings, Says Archbishop

QUEBEC CITY (BP)—"There is need for a greater union between the social scientists and the social service workers," Archbishop Berry said.

"The trouble with our social services is that we are becoming over-organized and we have lost the sense of community welfare."

Msgr. Berry said that although modern facilities must be placed at the disposal of the poor and unfortunate "more of the personal attention such as given by our forefathers should be incorporated into modern social assistance."

"We must not forget that the family is the first knob of society and that it then moved around the parish and then the village," he said.

"Public assistance, which was a church movement, has now become a state affair and the character of Christian charity is threatened," he said.

"We must maintain the personal touch in our charity and social assistance programs."

Earlier the delegates heard an address by Archbishop Gerard Berry of Halifax, N.S., who urged social science theories to reform their educational methods and include to a greater degree the teachings of Christianity.

McGill Buys Ancient Hebrew Manuscript Found in 1947

MONTREAL (CP)—McGill University announced Friday they included a complete text of the book of Isaiah of the old testament, believed to have been transcribed in the second century A.D. or 700 years earlier than the previously known oldest copy.

A university spokesman said the fragments are part of a discovery made by Bedouin tribesmen near the Dead Sea in Palestine where the world-famed Dead Sea scrolls were discovered in 1947.

He said they include biblical and non-biblical writings of an obscure Jewish cult known as the Essenes, who fled before advancing Roman armies 70 years after the birth of Christ. The Dead Sea scrolls, found by a wandering tribesman in an earthenware jar in a cave, aroused widespread interest at

SHOPPING GUIDE

Three Low-Priced Gadgets To Save You Time, Effort

By PENNY SAVER

What more could one ask for in the name of convenience? Set this notepad holder on your desk, and when the phone rings and you must jot down some notes in a hurry, you have but to pick up the pencil, roll out a piece of paper and begin.

I'll explain. To begin with, the container for the paper is made of metal, covered with smart simulated leather. The pencil is magnetized and therefore lies conveniently on the outside of the box, ready for you to grasp quickly at a moment's notice.

As for the squares of white paper which fill the box, they slip up, one at a time, when the tiny rubber wheel on the back of the box is given a turn. Hummmmm... must get me one of those. At $2.65, I don't mind at all. Just think of all the time it will save. Why don't you invest, too? I don't think you'll regret it!

Another handy office item is the indexed notebook. The purse-size gadget is made of metal. Simply move the marker to the section you want, open the book and it will automatically be at A, B, C, or whichever letter you chose. You've probably seen telephone number booklets made this way and if you have, you'll know what a boon they are to a person in a hurry. You pay $1.25 for this.

The purse-size shopette utilizes a similar idea. It is a circular plastic disc, with the name of practically any item you could possibly want to purchase at the grocer's store, listed. During the week, as you realize you'll need more butter, sugar and so forth, you flick up a little marker at that point. Then you go shopping, and as you buy each item, flick the marker off. When finished, you have a clean slate to start with again next week. This compact size disc is priced at $1.

In Step With Style

For the formal, picture bride of this season is this small-waisted, wide-skirted dress in white Chantilly lace over a pink acetate tulle slip. Belled skirt is cut from galloons of lace, separated at the sides to show a petticoat of gathered nylon tulle which cascades into the fashionable brief train.

By KITTY DIXON

Bridal gown trains make news. They are shrinking to tulle, more bouffant grace. In place of the cumbersome, difficult-to-manage sweeping trains of the past, this year's gowns are cut with trains just several inches longer than the all-round hemline to give that delicate, snow-drift effect... so lovely, yet so practical.

It has also been decreed that less straplessness will prevail. The veiled, bare-shoulder look will be succeeded by a more discreet and therefore prettier neckline this season.

Empire lines are important to youthful bridal gowns, coming through best when they're done in supple tissue silks.

The fabric you wear depends, of course, upon the style of gown, which, in turn, depends upon the type of wedding you have.

If you decide on the big church wedding, with everyone you know present, it follows that your gown will be floor length and formal. But this year your gown is most likely to be white with just a hint of color (for example, misty white over palest pink) and the headress will look more like a tiny hat than it has in past seasons.

Guests at such weddings will see brides gowned in nylon tulle and nets, most of them lavish with lace and many worn over layers of wide and spreading petticoats. Laces specifically have importance, particularly in designs where there is some draping. Satin is most successful when it's used as a foundation for lace or tulle veiling.

For the very youthful bride (in her late teens) there is special attention in the way of gowns at the new mid-calf length. Otherwise, the popular length is the ballerina which is becoming nearly classic for the young bride.

Membership Tea

Blue and gold were the color theme in Queen of Peace parish hall when Queen of Peace subdivision, Catholic Women's League, held its 29th annual membership tea. The president, Mrs. Arthur Smith, received the guests and presiding at the head table, which was centred with an attractive arrangement of spring flowers, were Mrs. J. C. Palmer, Mrs. A. Weydert and Mrs. A. C. Lovick. Conveners were Mrs. E. P. Murphy and Mrs. R. Stirling, assisted by Mrs. T. O'Leary, Mrs. P. C. Malone, Mrs. J. J. Comerford, Mrs. M. S. Pastuck and Mrs. R. F. Kachaluba. During the afternoon, past president Mrs. G. R. Guillemaud was presented with a teapot, sugar and cream set, a gift of members.

Annual Banquet

The Schubert Club of Victoria held its annual banquet recently at Victoria West United Church. Tables were decorated with spring flowers and Mrs. H. Sheard, on behalf of the club, thanked the ladies of the church for serving the dinner. During the evening a corgie was presented to Vera Barclay, club conductor. Games were enjoyed, convened by Mrs. J. Locke. The club will resume meetings in September.

Hanger Drive—HMS Endeavour Chapter, IOOE, held a successful coat hanger drive at the coffee hour at the home of the regent, Mrs. J. Gilbert. Hostess was Mrs. J. Cummins.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Start Sunbaths Slowly; Avoid Pain and Peeling

I know, with the spring sunshine flowing from heaven, you are beginning your sunbaths, or at least you are beginning to think about them. As usual, I am here to warn you and hope that you will heed my warning about this year.

Every year thousands of women read this column and then go out and remain in the sun for too long. They fail to increase the time they spend in the sun gradually, so instead of ending up with a lovely even tan, they are busy peeling their skin off their bodies. This gives the effect of some skin disease, with the patches of brown and white.

Just from the cosmetic angle a woman should go easy when she first begins to spend time in the sun after long winter months. Besides that, a sunburn can be very painful and can actually be dangerous to life.

There really is no reason today why you cannot remain longer in the sun than you used to because today there are many fine products which screen out the ultra violet rays. There is a new one on the market which you can spray on. This is most convenient because it makes it easier to cover every inch of the skin which will be exposed to the sun. Another nice thing about this one is the fact that it is water-repellent.

These are wonderful days for a woman. She can live an outdoor life comfortably because she can wear attractive but comfortable clothing. She has waterproof mascara, painted-on stockings for hot weather, light girdles, permanent waves, lasting lipstick, and any other number of aids to charm, though outdoors. Also she knows how to stay slim.

In case swim suits are slipping up on you, I offer my tested abdominal reducing exercises which will take a few inches off that measurement in a few weeks' time. If you would like to have them, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 2, "Abdominal Exercises," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Margaret McGregor Bride On Parents' Anniversary

Twenty-ninth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred W. McGregor, 2564 Queenswood Drive, was chosen by Margaret Isabelle McGregor for her wedding Friday evening, to Victor Richard Johnson, Victoria's son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Johnson, 1510 31st Street, Vernon, B.C.

First United Church was beautifully decorated with baskets of white snapdragons, stocks and narcissus, for the occasion. Bouquets of Ester Reed daisies marked guest pews, and Mrs. Roberto Wood played "On Wings of Song" during signing of the register. Mr. McGregor gave his daughter away in the ceremony which was conducted by Rev. Moir A. J. Waters.

As a link with the day of 29 years ago, the bride wore her mother's wedding veil of heirloom lace held in place by a dainty bonnet of lace. Her gown, in traditional white, was fashioned of nylon net and Chantilly lace over satin with fitted bodice, Elizabethan collar and lily point sleeves. The bouffant skirt billowed beneath a pointed lace and net peplum. Her only ornament was an heirloom gold pin set with a black cameo which had belonged to her great-grandmother and was a gift to the bride from her grandmother, Mrs. May Morley.

As matron of honor, Mrs. Henry Kolb, Victoria, aunt of the bride, wore a gown of melody mauve lace and nylon net with matching jacket and mitts and floral bandeau. Her flowers were a cascade of pale pink carnations.

Miss Dorilyn Morley of Burbank, Calif., the bride's cousin, was gowned in bouquet blue nylon tulle over net and tulle with pink flower trim. She had matching mitts, floral bandeau and carried a cascade of rose carnations. The flower girl was Miss Nola Haynes, dressed in pink net over satin and carrying a nosegay of spring flowers. Len Johnson was best man and ushers were Frank Grimshaw and William Mutas.

Reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the guest book was presided over by Mrs. J. Frank Christian. Mrs. McGregor assisted in receiving guests, wearing a jacket frock of cloud blush tulle with gloves and hat en suite and corsage of pink roses. Presiding at the table which was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, were Mrs. D. Fenner Chambers and Mrs. Beverly J. Morley. S. E. Neville proposed a toast to the bride.

For a "honeymoon" motoring through Washington and the interior, Mrs. Johnson chose a gift to the bride from her grandmother, Mrs. May Morley. A cascade bouquet of lily of the valley and red roses formed her bouquet. The young couple will make their future home in Victoria.

Bridal White Decorative Theme At Anderson-Reinhard Wedding

An all-white floral theme of narcissi, snapdragons and Ester Reed daisies decorated First United Church, Friday evening, for the wedding of June Elaine Reinhard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reinhard, 1241 Burnside Road West, and Clare Lewelland Anderson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Anderson, 1320 Hillside Avenue.

Rev. Moir A. J. Waters performed the ceremony and organ music was played by G. H. Peaker. Soloist J. Dunbar sang "Because" during signing of the register.

The petite, dark-haired bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely in her self-styled gown of pale pink satin with bouffant overskirts of white nylon net and tulle. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline and she had long lily-point sleeves. Her pink illusion elbow-length veil cascaded from a coronet of tiny pink roses and white heather and she wore a single strand of pearls and small pearl earrings. Pink Rapture roses and white heather formed her bouquet.

Mrs. John Bamford was matron of honor, wearing a gown of aqua tulle with bouffant skirt of nylon tulle, the fitted bodice embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white marguerites and wore a coronet of the same flowers.

Mrs. Kenneth Reinhard as bridesmatron and Miss June Anderson as bridesmaid, wore gowns of the same style in shades of rose and carried bouquets of marguerites.

Junior bridesmaid, Miss Sylvia Reinhard was dressed in aqua tulle with a full skirt of nylon tulle. The scalloped neckline was outlined with seed pearls. She wore a coronet and carried a bouquet of marguerites.

Kenneth Reinhard was best man and guests were ushered to pews marked by Ester Reed daisies by Jack Taylor and Doug Peaker. Master Bobby Anderson was escort for the junior bridesmaid.

Scarabs Made First as Hobby, Now a Business

"I do not usually wear so much jewelry," Mrs. Hedy Hill explained, "but I have decked myself today with many things so you will see the different pieces I make for women all over Canada."

By ELIZABETH FORBES

An Austrian woman, who arrived in Canada three years ago with a hobby she had cultivated because she was bored with "just society," has pyramided that hobby into a successful business.

It started when Vienna-born Mrs. Hedy Hill and her husband, an aviation engineer and physicist, were living in Egypt.

"One day a business friend of my husband presented me with a pair of small scarab earrings. Whenever I put them on people would say how exciting they were. So I began to think there must be something special in them for me."

Mrs. Hill decided she would find out how the scarab jewelry was made. "It was difficult," she says, with a trace of a delightful Continental accent, "for the secret has been passed from father to son for many generations. But I persisted and I did learn the way to make this jewelry."

"It was only to be a hobby," she explains with a quick shrug of her shoulders, "but when I came to Canada, I found it was to be more than that."

The first piece of jewelry Hedy Hill made in this country was for a friend. It was so much admired by friends of her friend that she soon was making more pieces.

In a matter of days she was started on a making-to-order routine.

"My jewelry was a little too big then, it frightened people," she says, "so I decided to find out what Canadian women would like."

This "finding out" started her on a house-to-house canvass of Toronto, showing her jewelry and talking to women. "I made many friends... real friends," she explains, "and I learned so much."

From this survey, Mrs. Hill started making smaller pieces. She learned, too, that she must design and make not only scarabs but all sorts of jewelry, pins, bracelets, belts. And that she could use semi-precious stones, copper and wire, as well as silver.

Soon she had a small factory. "I have left three people working in it," she says, "or, perhaps, two and a half people, the third one has just joined and does not do much as yet."

Hedy Hill's dream for the future is to use some of Canada's semi-precious stones in her jewelry pieces, agate, amethyst, quartz and a peculiar brown rock streaked with pink that is found in the Muskoka district of Ontario.

On her way back to Toronto she will stop in Jasper and look at the pink rock they have up there. Perhaps it could be used, too.

This is her first trip to the Pacific Coast and she came primarily to enter an exhibit in the first Gift Show to be arranged in Vancouver.

Her display includes trays full of turquoise scarabs, the "petrified beetles" that were worshipped as gods of everlasting life by the Egyptians and to Mrs. Hill, represent "good luck."

This interesting visitor speaks four languages. She has two sons, one seven and the other 15. Her mother lives with her in Toronto.

She loves Victoria. "You should be saying a prayer every day to the powers that allow you to live in this city," she said, "it is so-o-o beautiful."

Dietitians Receive Their Diplomas at Special Dinner

At a graduation dinner in Oak Bay Beach Hotel, Friday evening, four young dietitians received diplomas on completion of a post-graduate course in the dietetics school at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

They were Miss Betty Mitchell, Edmonton, a graduate of University of Alberta; Miss Joan Rogal, Saskatoon, a graduate of University of Saskatchewan; Miss Joan Constable, White Rock, B.C., and Miss Stephanie Notzel, Vancouver, both graduates of University of British Columbia.

Joseph Casey, chairman of the board of directors of the hospital, presided and seated with him at the head table were Miss Paula Reber, president-elect, Canadian Dietetics Association, and director of dietetics at Vancouver General Hospital; Miss C. M. Robertson, director of dietetics at Royal Jubilee Hospital, Mrs. Casey, George Masters, hospital administrator, Mrs. K. Moe, Misses P. Murray and M. O'Brien, members of the dietetics staff.

Others present included Mr. Fraser, administrative assistant, and Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. George Masters, J. Syme, purchasing agent at the hospital, and Mrs. Syme, Mrs. Margaret Talbot, director of dietetics at Veterans' Hospital, and Miss E. Jones, of the hospital dietetics staff.

Miss Robertson presented the diplomas to the four graduates, assisted by Miss O'Brien.

Guest speaker was Miss Reber who brought greetings from the president of the Canadian Dietetics Association, Miss Ruth Reid, and gave a brief address on different phases of dietetic work with special emphasis on new methods and the interesting opportunities now open for graduates. She was thanked by Miss Rogal.

B & PW Club Postpones Meeting

Because of the holiday the regular supper meeting of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club has been postponed from Monday, May 24, to Monday, May 31, at which meeting new members will be honored.

Guests at Government House

The Hon. Arthur B. Langley, Governor of the State of Washington, and Mrs. Langley, will be guests of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Wallace at Government House, next weekend.

The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Wallace have issued invitations for a late-afternoon reception at Government House next Friday in honor of the visitors. On Saturday evening there will be a small dinner party at Government House.

Brother and Sister To Be Named

A double christening will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in St. Mark's Anglican Church, Boleskin-Road, when the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Brook will be named David Paul and his two-year-old sister will receive the names Leuca Ella. Canon E. Willis will officiate and godparents for the two children will be Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wood and Miss Ella Harrison. Following the ceremony an informal reception will be held at the home of the parents, 818 Shamrock Street, for the christening party and a few friends. The tea table will be centred with the top layer of Mr. and Mrs. Brook's wedding cake, iced as a christening cake. The children's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hetherington of Calgary and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Brook, McCreary, Man.

Newspaper Theme at Shower

Members and friends of Victoria Chapter No. 25, Women of the Moose, met at the home of Mrs. G. Crooks, 1015 Empress Avenue, to honor a co-worker, Miss Joan Priddle who is to be married next Tuesday. To honor the groom-elect, an employee of the Victoria Press, decorations in the rooms were carried out with colored display ads, comics and newspapers and the Pyrex dinner service for eight with set of casseroles was concealed in a container representing a large paste pot. Miss Patsy Oakland presented the honor guest with a corsage of violets and a scrapbook containing clippings of showers and the engagement. Her mother also received a corsage of violets. A contest to make an elephant out of sheet of paper was won by Miss L. Pellett.

A buffet supper was served by Mrs. Crooks, assisted by the co-hostess, Miss D. Guelpa. Tables were covered with cloths made of newspapers and silver foil plates were used to carry out the novel decorative theme. Head table was centred with heart-shaped cakes entwining the bridal couple's names.

Those present were Mrs. D. Crooks, Mrs. C. Mawdsley, Mrs. J. Wetherell, Mrs. M. Morry, Mrs. A. Hopley, Mrs. J. Priddle, Mrs. J. Johnstone, Mrs. L. Berrow, Mrs. E. Holt, Mrs. A. McBay, Mrs. J. Mr. Bailey is well-known chartered accountant in this city.

Couple Well-Known in Victoria Wed In Afternoon Ceremony at Toronto

An afternoon ceremony in St. Leonard's Anglican Church, Toronto, Ont., of interest here, for it united Anita Maria Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nils Axel Richard Larson, 739 Burke Street, Victoria, with John Derek Clayton Aylard, 510 St. Charles Street, Victoria.

Pastel yellow and white snapdragons, greenery and candelabra decorated the church for the ceremony, which was performed by Canon P. J. Dykes. Organ music was played by A. Williams.

The bride, given in marriage by Eric B. Lusby, was charming in her ankle-length gown of traditional white. The fine lace which formed the fitted bodice extended to the hipline to meet the froth of net which formed her skirt. The low neckline was outlined with tiny seed pearls in a dainty pattern and was filled with a yoke of net. The long sleeves were of lace, and she wore a chapel-length veil of illusion net. Lily of the valley and stephanotis accented with blue cornflowers formed her bridal bouquet.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Audrey Crossman.

Opening lead—♣ Q

You ruff the opening club lead in the dummy, and lead one trump to your queen, discovering that the trumps are 4-0. Now you lead the king of diamonds, forcing out East's ace.

East returns a club, hoping to eliminate dummy's trump entry and allow the king of diamonds to run to the good diamonds. You ruff the second round of clubs the dummy, lead dummy's fourth trump to your ace and clear the queen of diamonds out of the way. Next you can lead a low trump to dummy's king, thus drawing East's last trump.

You are now in position to smash the jack and ten of diamonds, discarding your last club and one heart. All you can lose is two hearts and one diamond, so that you can make your contract.

Fishery Values Up Considerably

Fishery value landed in B.C. coastal waters last year was up considerably over the 1952 figure, the provincial department of trade and industry revealed today. Marketed value was up 15 per cent last year to $65,455,000 compared with $56,635,000 in 1952.

Reason for the increase was extended fishing operations due to better fish runs and completion of price negotiations between fishermen and operators.

St. John Ambulance

As in the past the reserved area for senior citizens will be attended by St. John members on the centre ground at Pandora and Cook Street during the parade on Monday, May 24. Members are asked to be in uniform and to meet at St. John headquarters, View Street at 9:30 a.m., to be allocated to their various posts for duty during the parade.

Tuesday—Oak Bay Nursing Division No. 176 at 8 p.m., Mrs. E. Humble, superintendent; industrial first aid class at 7:30 p.m., R. M. Barnes, instructor.

Wednesday—Senior first aid class at 7:30 p.m., Mrs. M. McDonald, instructor.

Amalgamation

Held 'Inevitable' For Powell River

"Formation of a district municipality encompassing four separate settlements is inevitable," B. C. Bracewell, deputy minister of municipalities, told Powell River and District Board of Trade members Thursday evening. "When you take steps to bring about the amalgamation it is entirely up to you," he added.

The provincial government official was invited to Powell River to address the Board of Trade following formation of a committee to look into the pros and cons of amalgamation. At the present time there are two villages (Westview and Cranberry Lake), a company town (Powell River), and an improvement district (Wildwood Heights), all adjoining.

Population of the district proposed for amalgamation is nearly 10,000.

Not 'Honking' By Autoists To Be Under Check

Late night "honks" will be short circuited if tourist trade chairman Courtney Haddock has his way.

He told the board of directors meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Friday that persons who insist on blowing car horns after 11 p.m. should be summarily dealt with.

"They put you in jail in Paris for doing this," "People," he said, "must get their sleep."

Mr. Haddock also suggested that the national anthem be played in theatres during intermission. This would make it more respectful than playing "God Save The Queen" at the end of shows where few, he said, wait to hear it.

2,000 Art Pieces Found in Home Of Museum Worker

LONDON (Reuters)—A collection of objects d'art ranging from a rare 17th century Russian tankard to an embroidered Persian prayer rug, was alleged Friday to have been stolen during the last 21 years from the Victoria and Albert museum here.

Museum assistant John Andrew Nevins, 58, was remanded on £50 bail until June 4 on 24 charges of stealing property from the museum.

Prosecutor B. M. Stephenson said police found more than 2,000 articles in Nevins' home, all of which were believed stolen from the museum.

THE GORGE Bridging the Past

On the 24th of May I always sigh,

'Cause I guess I am a sentimental guy;

My mind goes back to that by-gone day,

Up at the Gorge on this gala day.

There was a gal on whom I was gone,

She was all flouncy in flowered chiffon;

My last years flannels I'd sported that day,

Straw hat, a blazer, we were so gay.

We rented a canoe, she threw me a wink,

As she trailed dainty finger in the drink.

A box of Stevensons, I'd bot for my doll,

Who could so coyly twirl her para-sol.

I tried to paddle in a manly way,

And to make small talk, as she lazily lay;

A difficult feat, & I often sunk,

I recall my white flannels, so badly wrinkled.

At the tinkling teahouse we tied our canoe,

Had tea, slender toast & her eyes of blue.

Then gliding up the Gorge as the day wore on,

The red canoe . . . me . . . & the trailing chiffon.

We passed lots of others & waved to them,

One couple came close in their green canoe,

To borrow a cushion . . . then 23 skid-oo.

The G.F.'s were all lovely in that old fashioned way,

And their swains, deft blades on that 24th of May.

Then the stars came out, "her" eyes shut with a thud,

We had to walk home . . . WE GOT STUCK IN THE MUD.

HUMBER'S

"She's lovely . . . she's engaged . . . she furnished from us."

FIRST TWINS SEEK SENIOR RESIDENT TITLE

The first white twins born in Victoria have been entered in the Kiwanis "Senior Citizens" contest.

Mrs. Susan Youngs and Mrs. Harriet Hubbard, both 86 and both residents of the Aged Women's Home, have entered the race to find the Victorian who has lived longest in her city.

Kiwanians have expressed surprise at the response to the "Senior Citizens" contest being held to publicize the Kiwanis May 31 drive to raise $30,000 for completion of the club's village for elderly couples.

"It is amazing," said Kiwanian Ed Mailek, "the number of people who have lived in Victoria 75 years or more, or have been married for more than 65 years."

Ballet-Goers Cheer Return of Violetta

LONDON (CP)—Ballet-goers greeted Violetta Elvin enthusiastically Friday night in her first Covent Garden role with the Sadler's Wells Company since she tore a calf muscle at Vancouver on tour last November.

The second interval, ordinarily 15 minutes long, was stretched to 40 to accommodate the cheers and flowers for the Russian-born ballerina who appeared in the principal role in "Ballet Imperial."

New Ferry Link To End Road Gap For Powell River

Ferry service across Jervis Inlet, linking Powell River by highway to Vancouver, will be started "the end of June," according to Col. George Paulin, of Black Ball Ferries Ltd., Victoria.

The ferry will link Salthay Bay, on the north side of Jervis Inlet, with Maderia Park in Pender Harbor pending completion of the highway from Kleindale to Agamemnon Bay on the Sechart Peninsula.

The temporary run across Jervis Inlet will take about two and one-half hours and ferry officials plan at least three trips a day. When the road is completed to Agamemnon Bay, the trip will be shortened by one hour with a minimum of five trips a day.

Agamemnon Bay road is expected to be completed "by September," according to Hon. Philip Gagliardi, minister of public works.

Finns May Buy Norwegian Ship At Yarrow's Yard

MS. Hoegh Silverstar is in to Yarrow's Ltd. at government graving dock for a "scrape-and-paint." The ship berthed at the 100-ton crane Friday night, was surveyed today, and will be docked Tuesday.

Hoegh Silverstar is owned by Hoegh, Leif & Co., Oslo, Norway, but may change ownership several months from now. Representatives of a Finnish shipping company examined her here today and may register an "intention to purchase." She was built in 1938.

Meanwhile, the ship has a cargo offering in Vancouver, which she'll load when Yarrow's Ltd. completes the paint job. She is U.K.-bound.

King Bros. Ltd. are agents in Victoria.

French Traitors Shot

PARIS (Reuters)—Three Frenchmen, former members of the wartime gendarme in Paris, were executed by a firing squad in the Fort of Vincennes here at dawn today, Theodore Clercq, George Farriot and Ferdinand Poupet were found guilty of participating in hundreds of arrests and deportations and at least 50 executions.

Models, Music and Minuets Make Curling Rink Sparkle

Floor shows, car displays, games of chance and skill and dozens of other attractions are featured in the Glens Temple Shrine Club-sponsored fair and bazaar under way today in the Quadra Street curling club.

A rummage sale starting at 9:30 a.m. got things rolling and the fair proper opened at 10:30 a.m. It will close tonight at 10:45, following a visit by May 24 May Queen Betty Dolman.

Genial emcee George Ford will introduce performers during afternoon and evening. On stage at 2:30 p.m. was the Ellen Chislet school of dancing; at 3 p.m. a HBC fashion show—women's and children's clothing—was staged with 12 models taking part.

Around the large fair floor 13 late model cars shine and sparkle.

During the afternoon and evening Gizeh Temple's 30-piece prize-winning band under direction of James M. Miller will perform.

At 8:30 p.m., a pie-eating contest will be held for boys aged 13 to 15 years and girls eight to 12 will compete in popcorn-eating "sweepstakes." At 9 p.m. a half-hour floor show will be on stage, presented by the Florence Clough school of dancing.

Tea will be served throughout afternoon and evening, while a cold plate supper will be served at 5 p.m.

What am I?

A Knotty Trick To Unravel

Stretch a cord about 18 inches long beside the edge of a table. Invite a bystander to pick up the cord, holding one end in each hand, and tie it in a knot without releasing either end. How can he do it?

Answer in a Minute

How quickly can you answer this: What three figures multiplied by four produce five?

By the Numbers

Dotty's dad is a do-it-yourself fan and she's proudly displaying his latest handiwork. To determine what it is, draw a continuous line from dot 1 to dot 24. Where two numbers are beside one dot, use the dot for both. Whatever it is Dotty's beaming over, it's so new it hasn't been painted. Perhaps you'd like to lend a hand coloring it—with colored pencils or crayons, of course.

Ten Hidden Bunnies

How quickly can you find the 10 hidden rabbits? Check them off on a piece of tracing paper and let someone else try. Afterwards, color the drawing with colored pencils or crayons. The bunnies, of course, will blend in with the scenery.

Why is an artist provided with adequate protection at all times? You pay a debt of 65 dollars with seven bills, not one of which is a one-dollar bill. How can you manage it?

B.C. READY, SAYS OFFICIAL

WEEK'S TV ROUND-UP

By BILL PARKER

BY BILL PARKER

Color television moved one step closer to the Pacific north-west this week.

On Tuesday, King-TV broadcast its first color TV test pattern.

Colored tests have continued throughout the week.

Today, a full-color TV show was scheduled for broadcasting. Color television programs will be few and far between for some time to come though. "Victorians" will not see them because special—and at present extremely high-priced—sets must be used. The color sets are not on sale in the city. Local televisioners will, however, be able to see the same shows in black and white.

The popular program "Adventure," broadcast over CBUT at 4.30 Sunday, celebrates its first birthday this week.

A fitting production has been planned. Twenty scientists from the American Museum of Natural History will conduct viewers on a scientific tour of Hayden's Planetarium.

Such subjects as invertebrate animal life, the origin of the earth, anthropology, bird life and ecology will be discussed.

Received a booklet from "Hollywood Television Service" on Friday.

Seems HTS is Hollywood's biggest producer on TV western shows. The company has moved into the giant 135-acre plant of Republic Studios, and is turning out westerns hand over fist.

Among their productions, which incidentally may be seen on KING-TV's "Stories of the Century" program, are such well-known tales as "The Tale of Billy the Kid," "Frank and Jesse James," "The Dalton Gang," "Geronimo" and "Doc Holliday."

KTNT's big show this week will be "Success Story," when the spotlight will be thrown on Richfield Oil Corporation's new $40,000,000 refinery. Included will be shots of the electrostatic precipitator, the largest in the world, and some of the 1,500 miles of piping in the plant. Viewers will see the 240-foot towers where heats of 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit are developed in the refining process.

Telecast time is 10.30 p.m. Thursday, over KINTV-TV.

Praised as Best CD District

British Columbia is better prepared to handle a civil defense emergency role than any other province in Canada, a high official reported today.

G. A. McCarter, deputy provincial CD co-ordinator, said 82—or around 73 per cent—of incorporated municipalities in B.C. have active civil defense officials and committees.

"At the last count several months ago we had 38,000 persons involved in civil defense in British Columbia, many fully trained and all with training in several phases or for specific work in an emergency situation," said Mr. McCarter.

Lower mainland communities have their CD groups geared for action in the event of disastrous flood conditions at the present time.

Provincial officials believe that some communities in and near the area in danger may not be able to stage individual schemes in conjunction with a massive U.S.-Canada CD exercise "Operation Alert" June 14-15.

In Victoria, however, plans at 7 p.m., June 14.

Pearson Still Optimist

'Don't Write Off Geneva,' He Says

LONDON (CP) — L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs, said today it would be "most unwise" at this stage to write off the Geneva Conference as a failure.

In a parting statement on the conference the Canadian minister said:

"None of us who went to Geneva four weeks ago were under any illusions about the complexities of the problem confronting us or the obstacles which would have to be overcome before success could be achieved."

"Nothing that has happened at Geneva so far has warranted any change of view, but the talks are still going on, and it would be most unwise to write the conference off."

GENEVA (CP) — South Korea finally agreed today to elections throughout the divided Korean peninsula.

In a speech before the 19-nation Korean peace conference, South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung-Tai outlined a 14-point plan for the unification of his country and Communist-controlled North Korea.

At least two of the conditions he set forth for all-Korean elections were expected to be bitterly opposed by the Communists.

One of these was that any elections must be carried out under United Nations supervision and that the UN must certify the election results. The Communists contend the UN was a belligerent in the Korean war and have ruled out its role in Korean peace plans.

Another condition expected to be opposed by the Reds is that all Chinese Communist troops must be withdrawn from North Korea at least one month before the elections while some UN forces would remain until "effective control over the whole of Korea is achieved by the unified government of Korea."

HANOI, Indo-China (CP) — French fighters and bombers today heavily pounded Viet Minh bases in the vital Red River delta after the fall of one defense post. Other squadrons hammered at rebels shifting eastward from the crushed fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Planes from land and carrier bases ripped at the Communist Viet Minh's main highway communication leading to the Red River delta and Hanoi while fighters blasted at big Molotov frigate convoys.

Tyees Sign Sheridan

Hard-hitting outfielder Neil Sheridan is expected to be in the Victoria Tye line-up for their double-header against Calgary on Monday.

Sheridan, long-time Coast League outfield star, has agreed to terms offered by the Tyees and is scheduled to arrive in Victoria in time for the game. Tye manager Don Pries announced this morning.

Sheridan, 33, was purchased by San Francisco from Sacramento earlier this season, but has since drawn his release.

He is a big right-handed batter, considered a definite home-run threat, and a fast base runner.

With Sacramento of the Coast League last season, he saw action in 170 games and batted .293. He hit 43 doubles and 13 home runs.

BERLIN (AP) — Six miners were killed and 18 seriously injured when a pit in a Saxon uranium mine caved in, a West Berlin information service reported today.

A Tale of Toil

Youngsters participating in today's Junior Horse Show at Victoria Riding Club, Cedar Hill Crossroad grounds, were out as early as 6 a.m., grooming their mounts to impress the judges.

Vivian Andrews, 16, washed her horse, Grey Mist, with bluing. When she came to the tail, above, she just dunked it in the bucket. Afterward, she braided it. Vivian was one of nearly 100 youngsters taking part in today's show. On Monday, adult riders stage their show, beginning at 1.30. (Times Photo.)

Medical Building Segregation At Duncan Scored by Victorian

PICTURE STRIP TELLS CHURCHILL'S STORY

No Liquor Served Here Until Tuesday

Victoria cafes granted licenses to serve wine and beer with meals Friday will not be able to start operations until late next week, causing them to miss out on the heavy tourist influx over the holiday week-end.

This latest development in the city's drinks-by-the-glass picture followed clarification today of Friday's liquor control board statement that licenses would be "issued forthwith."

Operators who were successful in obtaining licenses took the statement literally, and several were prepared to start serving wine and beer today.

However, liquor control board officials interpret "forthwith" as meaning some time next week. They said licenses and forms have not been completed yet.

A top board official said it is "anticipated" the licenses will be ready for mailing by Tuesday, May 25.

Thirteen licenses were awarded altogether, including two lounge licenses (for the Empress and Strathcona Hotels), which will not be issued until premises have been completed.

Medical practitioners in Duncan were criticized today by Prof. J. A. Cunningham, president of the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society in Victoria, for invoking a segregation system for whites and Indians in their new $96,000 medical building.

The new medical building, which was recently completed and is serving local residents and over 800 Indians, has been provided with separate entrances and waiting rooms for Indians and whites. The two groups are completely segregated.

"I know it's their (the doctors') own affair on how they want to run their building," said Prof. Cunningham. "But it is a lousy system and not in keeping with the present-day tendency to break down racial and color barriers."

HAVE TO SUFFER

"Unfortunately minorities have to suffer this way," he added.

Prof. Cunningham recalled that Duncan has always had "queer" ideas about race. He pointed out that a few years ago some citizens were against the Indian children attending public school with whites.

"I believe Duncan is the only city in B.C. and in Canada which has ever raised this objection," he said.

Mrs. W. C. Cryer, an official of the society, described the segregation of Indians at the medical society as "not in keeping with Canadian principles."

"I have heard of negroes being segregated in the United States," she said, "but I did not think such a thing possible in Canada."

England Gets Snow

LONDON (Reuters) — Snow fell in the lake district of northern England today and London had the coldest weather since March.

36th Gas Victim

VANCOUVER (CP) — W. H. Worster, 48, became the city's 36th gas death of the year early today. Police said they believe it was suicide.

Peak in B.C. Flood-Crisis Expected In Next Two Weeks; Washout on Highway

VANCOUVER (CP) — Flood-conscious citizens of British Columbia faced a holiday week-end of gradually increasing temperatures today, while swollen rivers washed out portions of a main highway and forced residents of one community to boil their drinking water.

The major rivers throughout the province continued their steady rise. They are expected to reach peak levels within the next two weeks if the "warm spell" continues.

Residents of the Fraser River valley, hard hit by the disastrous 1948 floods, were heartened today by a report from dike commissioner J. R. MacDonald, who reported the Fraser's dikes holding firmly despite the pressure of the spring runoff.

Mr. MacDonald said he was confident the dikes would hold.

At Fruitdale, nine miles east of the smelter city of Trail, residents were warned to boil drinking water when the creek which feeds the village reservoir became choked with run-off debris.

Van Mosher, engineer in charge of the dikes at Creston, said he expects little trouble when the high water level, expected next Wednesday, is reached.

"There is some seepage, but not too much and the dikes are in better condition than they have ever been," said Mr. Mosher.

Flash flooding at Michel Creek forced several families to vacate their homes Friday in the Natal-Michel district near the Alberta-B.C. boundary in the southeastern corner of the province.

The rampaging creek cut the main highway in the district and secondary roads were reported under water in several places.

DETROIT (UP) — A $250,000 fire levelled a hay-strewn barn at the Detroit race course in less than a half-hour early today, killing 47 horses and injuring four groomers who braved the flames to lead other thoroughbreds to safety.

Track officials estimated the dead horses had been worth $200,000 and set property damage at $50,000.

NO TIMES MONDAY

The general holiday, on Monday, May 24, will be observed by members of The Times staff and there will be no issues of the newspaper. Next regular editions will be published Tuesday, with full coverage of the week-end holiday events.

Thrilling Action at Inter-High School Track Meet

A large crowd of noisy students from four Greater Victoria high schools were on hand to cheer their school representatives to victory at the annual inter-school track and field championships, which concluded at Victoria High School Friday afternoon. Finals in all track events were completed Friday, with

Two-Way Traffic Record; Good Weather Assured

Exodus of thousands of Victorians almost exactly matched the influx of visitors as near-record holiday week-end traffic began building up Friday and today.

All transportation companies reported "very heavy" traffic in and out of Victoria.

Trans-Canada Air Lines, only company able to forecast accurately its traffic over the week-end, expects to carry a total of nearly 5,000 passengers between Island and Mainland, Friday to Monday inclusive.

TCA operated 21 flights each way Friday, 15 are scheduled today, 19 Sunday, and 21 Monday.

Black Ball Lines reported traffic between Port Angeles and Victoria "equally heavy each way," with the peak so far reached on afternoon and evening sailings Friday.

CPR's day boat from Vancouver Friday had only a moderately heavy passenger list, but officials expected today's ship to be close to capacity.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines are operating extra coaches up and down Island. Two sections were added to The Islander Friday, and more will be added as necessary.

Colwood RCMP at noon today reported private car traffic on the Island Highway "heavy, and building up."

Weatherman Promises Sunshine

In Victoria the sage is set for the biggest festival of the year, and the weatherman has given assurance that the sun will be around to spotlight the numerous activities.

The sun will shine both Sunday and Monday, he says. While there may be a few clouds, they won't be around long enough to bother anyone.

Thousands of people from out-of-town began flocking into Victoria today to join local citizens in marking the May 24 holiday.

Tonight's big event is the crowning of Betty Dolman as Miss Victoria on the steps of the Parliament Buildings. That ceremony is set for 9, although bands and drill teams will perform in that vicinity from 7.30 on. The queen will parade to the coronation along Yates and down Government, moving off at 8.30.

Sunday's feature is the Pageant to be staged at Royal Athletic Park at 2. It is free to all comers. Close to 800 uniformed persons will take part in the pageant, including visiting bands and drill teams from the United States.

Monday's activities will begin with the big parade in the morning, starting at 10. The parade will begin at Royal Athletic Park and travel along Cook to Pandora, to Quadra, to Yates, to Douglas, to Fisgard, to Belleville to Douglas.

At 11.30, the May will stage its colorful "parade of the Queen's color" ceremony in front of the Parliament Buildings.

In the afternoon, citizens may choose between a horse show, the Gorge regatta, speedboat races at the Willows, a motorcycle rodeo and visiting the destroyer Sioux, which will be tied up at the CPR wharf in the Inner Harbor.

Fireworks at 10 at Beacon Hill Park will wind up the day's activities.

(By THE CANADIAN PRESS)

A double-barrelled holiday marking the birthday of two queens, May 24 will be celebrated across Canada with sports events, fireworks and family gatherings in town and country.

This is the second year in a row that Canada celebrates Queen Elizabeth's birthday on the same date as Queen Victoria's. Victoria Day for many years was observed on May 24, but under a 1952 statute Victoria Day is celebrated on the Monday immediately preceding May 24, to make a week-end holiday.

It happens that this year the Monday falls on the traditional May 24 date. Last year, Victoria Day and Queen Elizabeth's birthday were both celebrated on May 18, because May 24 fell on a Sunday.

It's 135 years since Queen Victoria was born—on May 24, 1819—but it's only 53 years since she died after the longest reign of any British monarch, 63 years. She succeeded to the throne in 1837 and died in 1901.

Since Victoria's death, the world has seen two global conflicts followed by the Cold War and the battle in Korea and Indo-China. Victoria's uncle, William IV, once said: "It will touch every sailor's heart to have a girl queen to fight for."

It is appropriate that the first warm weather holiday of the year in Canada should also mark the birthday of the present queen, who has just completed her great Commonwealth tour.

FINAL BULLETINS

Pearson Leaves Geneva for Home

LONDON (UP) — Canadian External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson flew home tonight and said: "It is very unlikely I shall be needed" again at the Geneva conference. He left for New York aboard BOAC flight 500 and will continue on to Ottawa. He said he will report to parliament Monday on the Far Eastern talks.

"Unless the situation requires my presence, I shall not be returning to Geneva," Pearson said. "It is very unlikely . . ."

Korea's Unification Plan Lauded

GENEVA (CP) — Canadian delegates to the Far Eastern conference welcomed South Korea's 14-point plan, offered today as a means of unifying the war-divided peninsula by elections.

South Korean agreement to hold elections in the whole country, not just the north, represents a modification of the stand previously taken by President Syngman Rhee and may afford a basis for negotiation, it is thought.

21 Freight Cars Derailed in Quebec

ST. HYACINTHE, Que. (BUP) — Twenty-one cars of a 49-car Canadian National freight train were derailed at St. Edward, eight miles east of here today, but railway officials said no one was injured.

Cause of the derailment was not immediately known.

Scots Threaten to Cancel Meet

VANCOUVER (CP) — The St. Andrews and Caledonian Society today threatened to cancel its annual track meet if it is not granted a B.C. Track and Field Association sanction for July 24.

The sanction, necessary for official records, has twice been refused by the B.C. branch of the Amateur Athletic Union and the B.C. Track and Field Association. Refusal followed request of B.C. Games officials that no track meets be sanctioned here following the B.E.G. trials July 9 and 10.

Mrs. Akhurst 'Good Citizen'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. W. A. Akhurst, 76, has been named Vancouver's "good citizen of the year" by the Native Sons of British Columbia.

In awarding Mrs. Akhurst the Vancouver good citizenship award, the selection committee cited her efforts to improve the condition of women prisoners at Oakalla as a member of the Elizabeth Fry Society.

Vancouver Death Toll Now Eight

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 1954 traffic death toll here rose to eight today when a 2½-year-old boy was fatally injured when struck by a car in the Mount Pleasant district.

The victim, Robert Ruhl, died in Vancouver General Hospital about half an hour after being struck.

England Gets Snow
LONDON (Reuters) — Snow fell in the lake district of northern England today and London had the coldest weather since March.

Pearson Still Optimist

LONDON (CP) — L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs, said today it would be "most unwise" at this stage to write off the Geneva Conference as a failure.

In a parting statement on the conference the Canadian minister said:

"None of us who went to Geneva four weeks ago were under any illusions about the complexities of the problem confronting us or the obstacles which would have to be overcome before success could be achieved.

"Nothing that has happened at Geneva so far has warranted any change of view, but the talks are still going on, and it would be most unwise to write the conference off."

GENEVA (CP) — South Korea finally agreed today to elections throughout the divided Korean peninsula.

In a speech before the 19-nation Korean peace conference, South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung-Tai outlined a 14-point plan for the unification of his country and Communist-controlled North Korea.

At least two of the conditions he set forth for all-Korean elections were expected to be bitterly opposed by the Communists.

One of these was that any elections must be carried out under United Nations supervision and that the UN must certify the election results. The Communists contend the UN was a belligerent in the Korean war and have ruled out its role in Korean peace plans.

Another condition expected to be opposed by the Reds is that all Chinese Communist troops must be withdrawn from North Korea at least one month before the elections while some UN forces would remain until "effective control over the whole of Korea is achieved by the unified government of Korea . . ."

HANOI, Indo-China (CP) — French fighters and bombers today heavily pounded Viet Minh bases in the vital Red River delta after the fall of one defense post. Other squadrons hammered at rebels shifting eastward from the crushed fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Planes from land and carrier bases ripped at the Communist-led Viet Minh's main highway communication leading to the Red River delta and Hanoi while fighters blasted at big Molotov truck convoys.

No Liquor Served Here Till Tuesday

Victoria cafes granted licenses to serve wine and beer with meals Friday will not be able to start operations until late next week, causing them to miss out on the heavy tourist influx over the holiday weekend.

This latest development in the city's drinks-by-the-glass picture followed clarification today of Friday's liquor control board statement that licenses would be "issued forthwith."

Operators who were successful in obtaining licenses took the statement literally, and several were prepared to start serving wine and beer today.

However, liquor control board officials interpret "forthwith" as meaning some time next week. They said licenses and forms have not been completed yet.

A top board official said it is "anticipated" the licenses will be ready for mailing by Tuesday, May 25.

Thirteen licenses were awarded altogether, including two lounge licenses (for the Empress and Strathcona Hotels), which will not be issued until premises have been completed.

A Tale of Tail

Youngsters participating in today's Junior Horse Show at Victoria Riding Club, Cedar Hill Crossroad grounds, were out as early as 6 a.m., grooming their mounts to impress the judges.

Vivian Andrews, 16, washed her horse, Grey Mist, with blueing. When she came to the tail, above, she just dunked it in the bucket. Afterward, she braided it. Vivian was one of nearly 100 youngsters taking part in today's show. On Monday, adult riders stage their show, beginning at 1.30. (Times Photo.)

ONE ENTRANCE FOR WHITES, ONE FOR INDIANS Medical Building Segregation At Duncan Scored by Victorians

Medical practitioners in Duncan and over 800 Indians, has been provided with separate entrances and waiting rooms for Indians and whites. The two groups are completely segregated.

"I know it's their (the doctors') own affair on how they want to run their building," said Prof. Cunningham. "But it is a lousy system and not in keeping with the present-day tendency to break down racial and color barriers."

"Unfortunately minorities have to suffer this way," he added.

Prof. Cunningham recalled that Duncan has always had "queer" ideas about race. He pointed out that a few years ago some citizens were against the Indian children attending public school with whites.

"I believe Duncan is the only city in B.C. and in Canada which has ever raised this objection," he said.

Mrs. W. C. Cryer, an official of the society, described the segregation of Indians at the medical society as "not in keeping with Canadian principles."

"I have heard of negroes being segregated in the United States," she said, "but I did not think such a thing possible in Canada."

Tyes Sign Sheridan

Hard-hitting outfielder Neil Sheridan is expected to be in the Victoria Tyes line-up for their double-header against Calgary on Monday.

Sheridan, long-time Coast League outfield star, has agreed to terms offered by the Tyes and is scheduled to arrive in Victoria in time for the game.

Tyes manager Don Pries announced this morning.

Sheridan, 33, was purchased by San Francisco from Sacramento earlier this season, but has since drawn his release.

He is a big right-handed batter, considered a definite home-run threat, and a fast base runner.

With Sacramento of the Coast League last season, he saw action in 170 games and batted .293. He hit 43 doubles and 13 home runs.

Scores Neck Victory In $100,000 Preakness

1. Hasty Road (Adams)	12.00. 3.20 2.80
2. Correlation (Shoemaker) ..	2.60 2.40
3. Hasseyampa (Kirkland)	4.40

Time, 1.57 2-5

BALTIMORE—Holding off a driving finish by the favored Correlation over the final eighth, speedy Hasty Road, with the veteran Johnny Adams in the saddle, today scored a neck victory in the 78th running of the $100,000 Preakness stakes at Pimlico. Hasseyampa was third.

Hasty Road went to the front in the drive to the first turn and was never headed. Correlation moved into contention entering the head of the stretch but could not catch the pacesetter.

Two-Way Traffic Record Indicated; Good Weather Assured for Holiday

Exodus of thousands of Victorians almost exactly matched the influx of visitors as near-record holiday week-end traffic began building up Friday and today.

All transportation companies reported "very heavy" traffic in and out of Victoria.

Trans-Canada Air Lines, only company able to "forecast" accurately its traffic over the week-end, expects to carry a total of nearly 5,000 passengers between Island and Mainland, Friday to Monday inclusive.

TCA operated 21 flights each way Friday, 15 are scheduled today, 19 Sunday and 21 Monday.

Black Ball Lines reported traffic between Port Angeles and Victoria "equally heavy each way," with the peak so far reached on afternoon and evening sailings Friday.

CPR's day boat from Vancouver Friday had only a moderately heavy passenger list, but officials expected today's ship to be close to capacity.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines are operating extra coaches up and down Island. Two sections were added to The Islander Friday, two more this morning, and others will be added as necessary.

Colwood RCMP at noon today reported private car traffic on the Island Highway "heavy, and building up."

Weatherman Promises Sunshine

In Victoria the stage is set for the biggest festival of the year, and the weatherman has given assurance that the sun will be around to spotlight the numerous activities.

The sun will shine both Sunday and Monday, he says. While there may be a few clouds, they won't be around long enough to bother anyone.

Thousands of people from out-of-town began flocking into Victoria today to join local citizens in marking the May 24 holiday.

Tonight's big event is the crowning of Betty Dolman as Miss Victoria on the steps of the Parliament Buildings. That ceremony is set for 9, although bands and drill teams will perform in that vicinity from 7.30 on. The queen will parade to the coronation along Yates and down Government, moving off at 8.30.

Sunday's feature is the Pageant to be staged at Royal Athletic Park at 2. It is free to all comers. Close to 800 uniformed persons will take part in the pageant, including visiting bands and drill teams from the United States.

Monday's activities will begin with the big parade in the morning, starting at 10. The parade will begin at Royal Athletic Park and travel along Cook to Pandora, to Quadra, to Yates, to Douglas, to Fisgard, to Belleville to Douglas.

At 11.30, the Navy will stage its colorful "parading the Queen's color" ceremony in front of the Parliament Buildings.

In the afternoon, citizens may choose between a horse show, the Gorge regatta, speedboat races at the Willows, a motorcycle rodeo and visiting the destroyer Sioux, which will be tied up at the CPR wharf in the Inner Harbor.

Fireworks at 10 at Beacon Hill Park will wind up the day's activities.

(By THE CANADIAN PRESS)

A double-barrelled holiday marking the birthday of two queens, May 24 will be celebrated across Canada with sports events, fireworks and family gatherings in town and country.

This is the second year in a row that Canada celebrates Queen Elizabeth's birthday on the same date as Queen Victoria.

36th Gas Victim

VANCOUVER (CP)—W. H. Worster, 48, became the city's 36th gas death of the year early today. Police said they believe it was suicide.

NO TIMES MONDAY

The general holiday on Monday, May 24, will be observed by members of The Times staff and there will be no issues of the newspaper. Next regular editions will be published Tuesday, with full coverage of the week-end holiday events.
